LATE NEWS

Reds Pierce Shanghai Lines

SHANGHAI—(AP)—Communist forces appeared today to have achieved a partial break-through of besieged Shanghai's southwest defenses.

The Nationalist defenders were rushing reinforcements to the critical area where reports indicated the Reds had reached the wooden fence encircling the city.

This would put the Reds through the main defenses of this Asia metropolis.

The Communists struck hard in the southwest sector at 10 a. m. By noon they seemed to have made good a partial break-through.

Angler Badly Hurt in Creekbank Accident

SENECA, S. C.—(AP)—Joel Harris, 22, agricultural instructor in Seneca High School, was reported unconscious and in critical condition last night in Oconee Memorial Hospital as result of a freak fishing accident late yesterday.

Harris and two friends, Mack Lawrence and F. C. Biggerstaff, were fishing in Cane Creek near here. Harris was seated on a heavy log. When his line hooked a fish, Harris stood up on the log and finally landed the fish after a struggle.

The struggle apparently loosed the log. It topplied, rolling over Harris and pushing him into the creek, where it pinned his body to the bottom.

Lawrence and Biggerstaff moved the log off Harris' body, freeing him, but could not revive him. Doctors at the hospital said he had suffered a fractured skull and may need a delicate brain operation to save his life.

MacArthur Orders New Trial for Convicted Jap

TOKYO—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur broke precedents in the Far East yesterday when he ordered a new trial for a convicted Japanese war criminal.

The action was the first of its kind in war crimes cases in Japan.

The Supreme Allied Commander set aside the death sentence imposed on Lt. Tetsutaro Kato, former Japanese Army officer convicted of having bayonetted an American war prisoner, Pvt. Frank Spears, of Kansas City, Mo.

Gen. MacArthur ordered the case retried with the explanation that the Military Commission which had tried Kato had admitted "prejudicial evidence without informing the defendant."

Kato was captured after a three-year search. He was placed on trial last Dec. 23, a few weeks after his apprehension.

Driver Arrested on Six Charges

Three persons were injured, one critically, yesterday when a taxicab sideswiped one car, rammed into a heavily loaded truck, spilling its cargo of cigarettes, and came to rest against a stone wall, police reported.

Identified as Robert N. Thackston, of a Mayson Hotel address, the driver was arrested on six charges. Two were for reckless driving, one each for leaving scene of an accident, running a red light, speeding and disorderly conduct-cursing.

The critically injured passenger, Mrs. Lula Franklin, of 409 Washington St., was admitted to Grady Hospital with a broken right thigh, bad chest and internal injuries and multiple bruises, police said.

C. A. Jones, the second passenger, of 891 Washington St., was treated at Grady Emergency Clinic for severe lacerations about the face, severe chest and internal injuries, according to the report.

The driver of the cab was treated for lacerated legs and bruises of chest before being released to police custody.

FROM OFFICE TO NURSERY—Shopping mothers turned their youngsters over to secretaries and office workers yesterday when bargain sale crowds prompted Rich's Basement to convert an executive office into a nursery. ## 15 Pct. Cut In ECA Aid Is Sought

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Republicans and economy-minded Democrats on the House Appropriations Committee teamed yesterday to recommend a 15 percent cut in funds for the Marshall Plan in the coming year.

The unusual action upset the recommendation of a subcommittee, but it is still subject to votes in the full House and Senate. Paul G. Hoffman, Economic Cooperation Administrator, said he was deeply disturbed by the cut.

There were two other major

CONGRESS ROUNDUP

Congressional developments:

1. An investigation into the administration of David E. Lilienthal as Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission was agreed upon by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

Chairman McMahon, Democrat, Connecticut, did not indicate its exact scope, but said the group will consider carefully the weekend denouncement of Lilienthal's stewardship by Sen. Hickenlooper, Republican, Iowa. Sen. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, joined Hickenlooper in asking an inquiry, although he said he reserved judgment.

2. House spy hunters said a mysterious Scientist X will be called before a House subcommittee soon, but asked newsmen not to disclose the identity of the subcommittee.

Scientist X, whose name was never been publicly disclosed, figured in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee last year. He was accused them of giving atomic secrets to a Communist leader. He has denied the charge.

Hoffman's comment about the economy slash in the new ECA appropriation was made at a news conference. He commented that the action was taken by "a new jury which hadn't heard all the evidence."

The amount the Appropriations Committee voted to lop off was $629,730,000. That would leave $3,568,470,000 for the year starting July 1. President Truman had asked $4,198,200,000; the subcommittee had proposed $4,015,900,000.

The reduction, proposed by Rep. Thomas, Democrat, Texas, was approved, 22 to 19. All 19 opposed were said by Committee members to be Democrats, while 15 Republicans and seven Democrats favored it.

The prospect of saving money was held out in the Senate as a major reason for approving a bill which would tighten the armed services unification law.

The bill would give the Secretary of Defense control over the spending and budgets of the Army, Navy and Air Force. The House still must act upon it.

Inmate's Father Flays Prison

Atlanta police late last night nabbed one of 15 convicts who escaped in a series of breaks from the Gilmer County Public Works Camp. The father of another captured Gilmer County prisoner charged the camp matches in horror the once notorious Devil's Island penal colony.

Ptl. C. D. Wiley and J. M. Gossett seized S. J. Mullinax, 29, of Carrollton. The officers said they picked him up because he appeared to be intoxicated. Wiley and Gossett said Mullinax attempted to escape from the patrol car, then admitted he was a Gilmer County escapee. He was serving five years for a forgery conviction.

Charles E. Martin, of 365 Sawtell Ave., S. E., yesterday described "foul" conditions in the Gilmer County camp, from which eight fugitives are still at large. Two of the others who escaped were caught yesterday in Pickens County and listed as James Moats and Charles Brittain. Others had been caught earlier. Meanwhile four of six escapees from a work assignment at Milledgeville were still at large.

Martin, a machinist, is the father of Chester Martin, now being held in Cobb County jail pending return to the Gilmer County camp. The father said, however, he would appeal to J. B. Hatchett, Acting Director of Corrections, for his son's re-assignment to Tattnall "or anywhere else but Gilmer." The machinist said he visited the camp Sunday.

Martin's description of the treatment prisoners of the Gilmer camp receive corresponds with that which the prisoners themselves recently described in a letter smuggled to The Constitution's Police Reporter, Keeler McCartney.

"I wouldn't let my cocker spaniel dog sleep where those poor boys have to sleep," Martin said. "About 40 men crowded into a 15-by-20-foot room."

He charged that recently a prisoner was beaten so badly that he "couldn't walk for a week," that the food consists mainly of potatoes; that the prisoners are not allowed newspapers and their only

Thrift Probe Seeks To Bar Higher Taxes

By M. L. ST. JOHN

The first economy probe of the State Government in a decade was launched yesterday by Gov. Talmadge's State Tex Revision Committee.

Seeking to spare your pocketbook before considering dipping in for increased taxes, the Committee divided itself into two subgroups—one to study economies and one to study tax revision plans.

No general economy investigation has been made of State Government since 1930, when Wilmer Lanier (now a member of the Tax Revision Committee) was chairman of a group of solons probing the Rivers Administration.

Half of the committee will investigate the spending by the State Government, beginning with the School Department next Monday.

The other half of the committee will study plans for revamping Georgia's tax structure. It will hear reports and recommendations from William Lester, Secretary of the State Tax Revision Committee, and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., at 10 a. m. today.

House Speaker Fred Hand, of Mitchell County, is Chairman of the economy subcommittee which has summoned Chairman George Whitman, Jr., of the Board of Education, Chairman Hughes Spalding, of the Board of Regents, State School Supt. M. D. Collins,

Obedient Son, 4, Kills Dad After Mother Is Slain

MT. PLEASANT, N. C.—(AP)—A four-year-old boy shot and killed his father as directed yesterday after the man pumped seven bullets into his estranged wife.

"I shot my daddy," calmly related tiny Doyle Talbert, one of seven children. "Daddy shot mommy on the back porch. He carried her in the bedroom and asked me to shoot him."

Sheriff Ray C. Hoover related this series of events in the double slaying:

Fetzer Lee Talbert, 37, of Stanfield, N. C., went this morning to the farm home near here where his wife had been living for four months. He accused her of running around with other men and an argument started.

Talbert fired six shots from a .22 caliber rifle into the 35-year-old woman's chest. Then he carried her into a bedroom and shot her again through the head.

Placing the rifle against his own chest, Talbert ordered the small boy to pull the trigger. Doyle followed directions as five-year-old Judine looked on.

The couple had been saparated four years. Mrs. Talbert had been employed in a Concord textile mill until moving to the John Kendley farm. Talbert did odd jobs.

A son, Roy Lee, 16, who was plowing nearby when tragedy struck, said his father had remarried.

Clay Sees Agreement By Big Four

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — (NANA) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay yesterday confidently predicted that an agreement will be reached with Russia at the Foreign Ministers' Conference in Paris.

In an exclusive interview with the North American Newspaper Alliance, the former U. S. commander in Germany declared flatly that the Soviet rulers want an agreement on Germany because their tactics failed and they need a new policy.

"The real reason for the prospect of an agreement," he said, "is that the Western European nations are determined to stand together in a common front. That determination has had a deep and profound effect on the Russian policy-makers. Their policy failed and they have lost the political war.

"Another reason for the failure of Russia's policy is the striking economic recovery that Europe is making. The steady gains toward stability that are being achieved

Peachtree Danger Curve Ordered Straightened

Spurred by the mounting toll of accidents in the 2100 block on Peachtree Road, Fulton County Commissioners in special session yesterday authorized the public works department to "take immediate steps" to straighten out the "S" curve on the thoroughfare.

In taking the action the commissioners cited the trolley accident, in which 23 persons were injured, on that curve Friday and the automobile accident a few months ago which claimed the life of the well known advertising executive, Robert Scott.

At the same time, the board asked County Manager A. E. Fuller and public works officials to obtain estimates on the cost of installing white way lights on such crowded county arteries as Peachtree Road to the county line, Lee street and Piedmont Road.

Commissioners R. L. (Shorty) Doyal and Jack Towns strongly favored immediate authorization of the improved lighting systems, but at the insistence of Commissioners Jim Aldredge, I. Gloer Hailey and Tom Camp, held up action pending estimates from Georgia Power Company officials.

Calling for faster action in closing right-of-way deals along the west by-pass of the express highway, commissioners directed Charles Boynton, right-of-way agent, to work with the legal department, in an effort to effect out-of-court agreements. Boynton told the commissioners condemnation proceedings via the courts would take longer and cost the county an estimated $41,000 more than purchase prices arranged by appraisal and agreement.

India Edwards Lashes At Non-Voting Women

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

India Edwards, Executive Director, Women's Division, National Democratic Committee, advocated a two-party system for Georgia, equal representation of women on all political committees, and urged an end to the practice of women being treated like a minority "and enjoying it."

Speaking at a public luncheon meeting at the Piedmont Driving Club as the guest of the Women's Division, Fulton County Democratic Club, Mrs. Edwards lashed at "spineless women who protest they aren't concerned with politics or who say their husband won't let them participate."

"As a citizen you are in politics, whether you like it or not," she exclaimed. "Every vote in every political and legislative body affects you. You can't get away from the results. I don't see how a woman can be a good wife and mother if she doesn't vote."

As the leader of women credited largely with Truman's victory, Mrs. Edwards pointed to States like Ohio where women accounted for 65 percent of the votes, contrasted it with Georgia, where she said, "I hear women don't do a thing in politics."

She urged them to keep in touch with their Senators and Representatives, to take a stand, commend or protest and let them know how their constituency believes.

"It is a dangerous thing," she said, "that America had only 52 percent of its citizens at the polls in the last election. What must the Communists think of us. If Italy had been as apathetic, the Reds would have taken over that country. In the last general election there, 90 percent of the qualified voters spoke their preferences."

She cited the work of women in Tennessee, where Estes Kefauver won his election largely, she said, because he realized there are no better helpers than women and delegated them with responsibility to organize every precinct in the State.

In a name-calling attack on "rich organizations," Mrs. Edwards cited the American Medical Association, the National Associa-

Lines Form to See Navy's Constitution While Jets Fly Over

WORLD'S LARGEST COMMERCIAL-TYPE PLANE

Navy's 'Constitution' Lands Here For 2-Day Public Inspection Visit

By LUKE GREENE
Constitution City Editor

Thousands of curious Atlantans began filing through the world's largest commercial-type airplane in service yesterday at Municipal Airport after the Navy's Lockheed Constitution roared in from Birmingham and landed as gracefully and gently as a swan settling to earth.

Aboard the sky giant, as its spinning wheels touched the runways here, were approximately 40 Atlanta and Georgia news and radio men who were flown to Birmingham by the Navy to ride in the Constitution and get firsthand impressions of what it's like to skim through the clouds in a 92-ton plane. The plane can transport 180 passengers in its plush cabin which makes you feel as if you were in a flying hotel.

Mayor Hartsfield was in the throng that greeted the plane on its arrival here.

The Constitution will be open for public inspection from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. today at the Municipal Airport, completing its two-day public showing. Four Marine jet "phantoms" will stage a spectacular demonstration between 3:30 and 4 p. m. today.

The Constitution is scheduled to fly over the City in a special 45-minute flight at 8:30 a. m. today with Gov. Talmadge, Mayor Hartsfield and other dignitaries as passengers.

Atlanta will have to get out a sizable crowd to beat Birmingham, where 26,500 spectators streamed through the plane over the weekend. This was the second largest number to view the monarch of the skies on its current country-wide tour in the interest of the Navy's recruitment program. The record so far was set in St. Louis, with a total of 33,000.

Navy personnel and officials of Lockheed can reel off endless facts and statistics about the construction and operation of the Constitution. They provided newsmen with much of this information as the plane cast its monstrous moving shadow over the countryside yesterday on the sun-splashed flight from Birmingham.

It cruises at nearly 300 miles per hour but the speed is toned down to 85 or 90 miles per hour on landings and takeoffs. It has a nonstop range of almost 5,000 miles and if turned on one wing tip the other wing tip would reach almost 18 stories high. A tunnel in each wing extends to within six feet of the tip. It is so large that it can be inspected, serviced and even repaired, if necessary, in flight.

Normally the Constitution carries a crew of 12 officers and men, with Cmdr. William M. Collins as officer-in-charge. However, during the present tour the complement is about 40, or three full shifts.

One of the big attractions of the crew is Lt. Cmdr. Buddy Rogers, of movie fame, who is taking his two weeks' active duty with the Naval Reserve by accompanying the Constitution. He was a Naval flier during World War II.

An unusual operating feature of the plane is the rotation of the wheels before landing, which reduces landing shock. The rotation is started by wind catching in "elephant ears" or flaps on the tires. This rotation is then picked up by electric motors and when

YOU CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT IRON!

A Shortage of This Life-Giving Mineral Seriously Impairs Your Health

Iron-Starved Blood Makes You Feel Weak and Listless, Look Pallid and Older Than You Are

If all of the iron in your body were removed at once, you could not live! If half of it were taken away you would be so weak, listless, tired, and miserable that you'd feel only half-alive!

Yet thousands of men and women actually have little more than half enough iron in their system. And that is why they suffer as they do! Iron-starved blood makes you feel miserably weak, run-down, tired-out, and older than your years. You not only feel terrible, but you look pale and have a sallow, disagreeable complexion.

Iron gives you strength, vitality, energy, and stamina. Iron gives your blood its color and you in turn enjoy a healthy color. Iron makes your red blood cells full-sized, strong, healthy, and plentiful. Strong blood helps ward off disease and sickness.

Talbo Tonic Tablets

Talbo Tonic Tablets make it easy for you to build strong, red, iron-rich blood, even if you are one of the thousands who could never take iron tonics because the iron in them caused nausea, constipation, colicky pains and cramps.

New Kind of Iron

The iron in Talbo Tonic Tablets is a new kind of iron. It rarely, if ever, causes the common distresses of other, old-fashioned kinds of iron in other preparations. What's more, the iron in Talbo Tonic Tablets is more readily absorbed by your system—you get more good out of it in a shorter time.

Talbo Tonic Tablets also contain valuable Vitamins B-1 and B-2—the vitamins so many need and fail to get. They bring welcome relief to the suffering from nervous irritability, muscular aches and pains, loss of appetite, poor digestion with its accompanying gas pains and bloating, when these symptoms result from a deficiency of these vitamins. You get all the benefits of iron — plus those of Vitamins B-1 and B-2. Talbo Tonic Tablets tone up your whole system!

WHAT IRON DOES FOR YOU!

Your blood is your life. Your blood depends on iron for strength. And you depend on blood for strength.

WEAK, PUNY, PINK — Iron-starved blood cells make you feel weak and puny, look pallid. They fail to take full supplies of purifying oxygen and energy to every fiber of your body. You lack energy, strength, stamina and a healthy full color.

STRONG, ABLE, RED — Iron-enriched blood cells carry plenty of life-giving oxygen and energy to every inch of your body, strengthen nerves and tissues, get rid of poisonous wastes. New pep, vitality, and a healthy color can be yours.

Medical science has known for hundreds of years that it takes iron to build strong, rich, red blood. Avoid the dangers of iron-starved blood by taking Talbo Tonic Tablets—the new iron tonic.

Guaranteed

Buy Talbo Tonic Tablets under this iron-clad guarantee: if the very first bottle, a full week's supply, fails to make you feel and look better, stronger, and healthier, its price will be cheerfully refunded. You and you alone are the judge!

Talbo Tonic Tablets go right to work and you will notice the difference in a matter of days. But remember this: medical authorities state that the fullest effect of iron takes place during the second to fourth week of treatment. So, when you have satisfied yourself that Talbo Tonic Tablets are what you need, keep on taking them for a full 30 days and then see how much better you feel, look, and are!

1 Killed, 2 Hurt in Berlin As Strike Violence Flares

Violence flared again yesterday in Berlin's three-day-old elevated railway strike. A 16-year-old youth was killed and two persons injured when rioting between striking railway workers and Communist strikebreakers developed at the Zoo Station in the western part of the city.

The Soviet sector police fired on 3,000 strikers and sympathizers who tried to storm the station.

WORLD TODAY

Order was restored when the Soviet sector police yielded to a British demand that they evacuate the station. Western police took over the building.

Earlier military commanders of the Western Powers refused to aid the strikers by permanently expelling Soviet sector police from Western Berlin's elevated rail facilities for the duration of the walkout.

Instead the Western Allies authorized intervention by Western police only to quell revivals of violence at individual stations. Seizure of stations in the Western sectors of the city would break a 1945 four-power agreement which gave the Russians control of the city's railway system.

The Bonn Constitution for 45,000,000 Western Germans formally was proclaimed in effect. This occurred just five minutes before the opening of the Four-Power conference in Paris.

If the Big-Four Paris conference is successful the document may become the constitution for the Russian zone of Germany also. The Western powers are said to have agreed that the Bonn Constitution must be the basis for any political unification of Germany.

The United States filed a formal request with the British Home Office in London for the extradition of Gerhart Eisler. Eisler is due for a hearing on the extradition petition in Bow Street Magistrates Court today.

Flood waters of the Amazon and Sao Francisco Rivers swirled over two vast sections of Brazil some 1,200 miles apart. The Governor of the Coastal State of Alagoas estimated the Sao Francisco already has caused 100 deaths and property damage amounting to more than $2,500,000.

In China the Communists made progress in spots but failed to break through during all-day assaults on Shanghai. But the Chinese Nationalist garrison said Red reinforcements were coming up and a crisis was at hand. Fighting in the industrial district of Pootung, across the Whangpoo River east of Shanghai's business center, was so near that thousands of civilians watched it from the streets and rooftops.

U. S. Awards Railman $5,000

A retired Atlanta conductor will be paid $5,000 for injuries suffered when he was attacked by soldiers on a train, under terms of a bill now awaiting President Truman's signature.

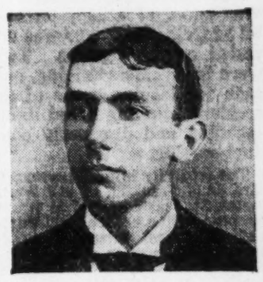

The bill names Hal W. Cline, 67, of 493 Clifton Way, N. E., as the injured conductor. The measure was passed yesterday by the Senate, following previous House approval.

The conductor in his testimony before a Judiciary Committee testified he was attacked by several soldiers on an Atlanta and West Point passenger train on Oct. 1, 1943.

Informed yesterday of the Senate action, Cline described the attack as unprovoked, adding that he was manhandled and thrown against a seat into the aisle when the soldiers became rowdy.

Result of the attack was that he became paralyzed on his left side and able to get about only by the use of a can, the conductor stated.

Storm Damage of Ten States in Millions

Storm-raked areas of 10 States are buckling down today to repair damage and help the injured and homeless.

The American Red Cross set aside $500,000 for relief of hundreds left homeless by a weekend of tornadoes and windstorms. Volunteers and governmental agencies gave muscle and money to aid in repairing damage estimated in the millions.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Pennsylvania reported 46 dead. Heavy property damage was reported in West Virginia, Texas, Tennessee, Iowa and Maryland.

Heavy rains after the windstorms made the repair job tougher, but snarled communications and transport were gradually resuming normal operation. Immunization stations geared themselves to battle the threat of disease.

8 Firms Hit By Yeggmen; WatchesFound

Burglary-squad detectives early today were searching for yeggmen who broke into eight firms over the weekend and punched their way into the safe or strong box of three of them.

A police report said four watches were recovered following a burglary at Schneider and Sons, Peachtree Street jewelers, when detectives arrested John Grimes, Negro, 31, of R-242 Harris Street, N. E. The report stated the watches were taken after a front glass had been broken out of a display window.

Entry into the other eight firms was effected through pounding out screens, glasses or door panels, to disengage locks from the outside.

A. M. Feldman, of 784 Gordon St., S. W., lost at least $600 and a suit, reports showed. The Carrier Air Conditioning Company at Candler Warehouse, near Whitehall Street and Stewart Avenue, S. W., lost $132. At the Sherwin-Williams Paint Company, locksmiths were working on the company safe to determine if thugs reached the contents when they punched the combination off.

F. J. Cooledge and Sons, paints, at 818 Gordon St., S. W., reported an unsuccessful effort to enter the firm through a rear door. Candy, cigarettes and headache powders were reported missing from Albert W. Ray Service Station at 841 Edgewood Ave., N. E. Minor losses were reported in two entries at The Diner, 851 Memorial Dr., S. E., and Sanders Peanut Store, 764 Memorial Dr., S. E. A janitor at Packard Motors, 370 Peachtree St., N. # Early Start On Sidewalk Plan Urged

Ald. Dowse Donaldson, Chairman of City Council's Public Works Committee, announced yesterday he will submit detailed plans and urge early start of a downtown sidewalk widening program in the interests of pedestrian travel.

Several months ago, Donaldson evolved what was known as the Donaldson improvement plan for the central business area and City Council set up $10,000 as a starter. Yesterday Donaldson said the plan has reached the "performance stage" and said he will ask that the first stretch of the work—a two-foot widening on both sides of Broad Street from Marietta to Hunter Streets—be authorized immediately.

He said the plan contemplates removal of whiteway standards and other obstructions from the sidewalk areas. The Georgia Power Company will be asked to assist in mounting whiteway standards and bus trolleys on buildings to permit the removal of poles along the improved stretch.

"Merchants have agreed to rebuild fronts of their stores making them more attractive as a complement to the sidewalk widening," Donaldson said.

Moose To Meet In New Home; Roster at 1,200

The Atlanta Lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose will hold their first regular meeting in their new home at 781 W. Peachtree St., N. W., at 8 p. m. tonight.

Formally dedicated Sunday, the new home has been completely redecorated. Prior to the dedication 563 new members were initiated into Lodge No. 65 to bring its total membership to 1,200.

Future plans for the home include construction of a ball room in the basement and a new dining room to extend off the kitchen. Dinners will be served in the present dining room starting Thursday.

Among prominent members of the LOM attending Sundays initiation and dedication were Bob Irvin, of Baltimore, regional director of the Loyal Order of Moose of the Eastern Seaboard; C. B. Carithers, Governor of the Atlanta Lodge; Albert Ladner, of Philadelphia, Past Supreme Commander; Martin Markley, State Director; E. J. Mifka, of Chicago, General Governor of the Supreme Lodge; and Milton Hanson, of Mooseheart, Ill.

PROUD HOME TOWN READY

Bedecked Marietta Adds Last 'Clay-Day' Touches

"WELCOME HOME, GENERAL CLAY!"

Those words were going up all over Marietta yesterday, as the famous General's home town rushed its preparations for a gigantic "Clay Day" celebration Thursday.

The greeting is framed in red, white and blue bunting, which Mariettans are busy hoisting on every lamp post along the paride itinerary.

In the City Square—where Gen. Clay will make his report to the Nation at 2 p. m. Thursday—they are getting everything in spic-and-span order. Workers yesterday were diligently cleaning the statue of the General's father, Sen. Alexander S. Clay.

"Clay Day" planners announced the parade route:

The General and a motorcade of 500 cars will go from the Marietta Air Force Base up the Four Lane Highway to Roswell Street, proceed down Roswell Street to Park (City) Square, go up Cherokee Street to junction with Church Street and proceed down Church Street back to the City Square.

The platform from which Gen. Clay will speak will be located in the Square on the corner of Atlanta and Roswell Streets.

Cobb County officials are busy sending invitations to the celebration to all other County officials in Georgia.

Rep. Harold Willingham, of Cobb County, is sending invitations to all members of the General Assembly. He will entertain Gov. Talmadge, State officials and State Legislators at 10 a. m. Thursday at a "brunch" at the Country Club.

Sen. George, Sen. Russell and all 10 Georgia Congressmen will attend "Clay Day" along with a host of other distinguished guests.

Gen. Clay, who is scheduled to arrive at 1 p. m., will be accompanied by his wife, Marjorie, and son and daughter-in-law, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Lucius D. Clay, Jr. They will be welcomed by his brother, Ryburn Clay, of Atlanta, plus thousands of admiring, proud and grateful Georgians.

PoliceMayTurn House Movers

The East Point Police will have a house-moving job on their hands today if a wrecking firm fails to comply with a Councilmanic order that one of its prefabricated houses be removed from its present site.

Chief W. H. Tyler said that a house moved to the business location of the Continental Wrecking Corporation, 100 East Cleveland Avenue, East Point, has been condemned by the East Point City Council.

Chief Tyler said the building was transferred to its present location at night and it fails to comply with city ordinances governing fire protection and sanitation.

It formerly stood at 1554 Peachtree Street, Atlanta.

Georgians To Get Occupation Medals

Navy Occupation Service Medals will be awarded eligible Georgians who are members or former members of the Marine Corps and the Marine Corps Reserve, Marine authorities announced yesterday.

The distribution of medals will begin June 1. The medal may be awarded personnel who were attached to and served with organizations of the United States Naval Service in occupation of enemy territories during World War II. Persons eligible for medals are requested to notify Sixth District Marine Reserve Headquarters, 449 W. Peachtree St., N. W.

Wary Big Four Ministers Gather in Paris

By BOB CONSIDINE

PARIS, May 23—(INS)—A jittery Dove of Peace alighted gingerly in the ornate grand salon of Anna Gould's "Pink Palace" in Paris yesterday afternoon and the four Foreign Ministers, eyeing one another speculatively, began trying to make it feel at home.

This is the sixth meeting of the Big Four ministers since the end of the war and the future of commonly-defeated Germany and of the world itself is at stake.

Andrei Vishinsky, almost dapper-looking in a blue business suit and a natty blue and gray tie, may or may not have shaken hands with serene-looking United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson after reporters and cameramen were expelled from the gilded, marble room where the welfare of the earth's billions will be weighed in coming weeks.

But he did not get around to that gesture of friendliness during the four or five minutes reporters were permitted to gape at the four leaders, each in a gilded ceremonial chair, and at their aides in common chatauqua-like squats.

The Russian did, however, get up from his place, shortly after making himself comfortable, and push through photographers and aides to walk to the other side of the 20-foot green-clothed round conference table to shake hands with Robert Schuman, France's bald, bland, grinning Foreign Minister.

In doing so, Vishinsky was forced to brush heavily against Acheson's chair, disturbing the calm of the American enough to cause him to look around a bit impatiently.

The only member of the Russian party who shook hands openly with the Americans at the start was the famed interpreter for Stalin and Molotov, Nikolai Pavlov, who greeted advisors John Foster Dulles and Charles Bohlen.

Britain's Foreign Minister Bevin, looking like a man who had eaten much too heavy a lunch and was regretting it, stared impassively across the conference table.

Acheson whispered quietly with Bohlen, the State Department's top expert on Russia.

Acheson never looked to the right, where the occasionally smiling Vishinsky sat, flanked by Gen. Chuikov, ruler of Eastern Germany, and such Russian diplomatic brass as Smironov, Soviet authority on Germany.

Outside the 30-bedroom "Pink Palace" about 300 persons had gathered to watch the arrivals.

The brilliantly uniformed Garde Republicaine, Spring sunshine bouncing off their ornate gold helmets, greeted each mission head with a flash of long swords and rigid attention.

Acheson was the first person of importance to arrive. He showed up a half hour early and went to one of the former bedroom offices assigned to the United States delegation.

He was also the first of importance to enter the red-carpeted conference room.

Vishinsky was the last in the room, with two minutes to spare before the scheduled starting time. He had to weave his way through the American delegation en route to his place but did not speak.

He was heavily surrounded by aides and was the first to show impatience with the repetitious flashbulb shots of himself and his party.

There were no speeches of welcome for correspondents cars. A flunky closed the great French doors looking out onto lush gardens and the Avenue Foch, and the floodlights were extinguished, leaving friends and combatants alone.

The last photographer was half pushed through the great mahogany doors of the grand salon and —from within—a foreign minister cleared his throat.

So on this bright day the Dove of Peace began lurking amid the ghosts of bygone splendor and the hopes of the peoples of the world.

Ministers' Plan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Big Four Foreign Ministers opened their conference in Paris yesterday.

After some polite skirmishing they adopted an agenda which surprisingly included consideration of an Austrian independence treaty. The Ministers agreed that unification of Germany was their top business.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky was agreeable throughout, but there were hints of tough sessions ahead. Previous efforts of the diplomatic chiefs of the United States, Britain, France and Russia to reach agreement on Germany have failed. The agenda for the present meeting is almost identical with the slate used in the earlier conferences.

Guilt for War Dead Is People's--Bradley

NORTH AMERICAN NEWSPAPER ALLIANCE

On April 18, 1945—one month after he was cited for the Medal of Honor—Cpl. Edward G. Wilkin, a rifleman with the 45th Infantry Division, was killed by enemy action east of the Siegfried Line he help to break. On Memorial Day, 1948, his body was carried to a final resting place in a quiet churchyard in Longmeadow, Mass. Among the men who walked in the procession that day was another soldier, Gen. Omar Bradley, wartime Commander of Ground Troops in Europe and now the Army's Chief of Staff. Gen. Bradley's words on that occasion were published in pamphlet form by friends and neighbors of Cpl. Wilkin, in the belief they are worth repeating whenever and wherever Americans may honor their soldier dead. The following is condensed from this address:

By GEN. OMAR BRADLEY
Chief of Staff, U. S. Army
(Condensed from June Reader's Digest)

We have come to do honor not alone to one brave soldier, but to the generations of young men who left their homes to defend them at Conford, Antietam, the Argonne and in the snows of the Ardennes.

It is easy for us who are living to honor the sacrifices of those who are dead. For it helps us to assuage the guilt we should feel in their presence. Wars can be prevented just as surely as they are provoked, and we who fail to prevent them must share in guilt for the dead.

I have not come here today to consecrate war, and its evils nor the sacrifices war has produced. For every man in whom war has inspired sacrifice, courage and love, there are many more whom it has degraded with brutality, callousness and greed.

Rather we are gathered here to learn—if we can—how men might live as charitably together in peace as they died for each other in war. We have come to ask why it is men cannot live as bravely as they die.

In our hatred and renunciation of war we must not forget that the roots of conflict flourish in the faults and failures of those who seek peace just as surely as they take shape from the diseases and designs of aggressors.

The American people have suffered enough in two World Wars to know that noninvolvement in peace means certain involvement in war.

This lad we buried today is the victim of the folly of all peace-loving peoples who turned their backs on the ills of the world. For at the very time that aggressors conspired against the peace of the world we blinded ourselves to their threats, and by our shameful inaction countenanced their starting attack.

Secure in distant and peaceful towns like these, clinging to comforts, refusing risks, seeking safety in refuge and refuge in words, we recanted power and conscience to side with those who sought peace at any price. Too late we discovered the price of peace was too high; and to keep our freedom we paid in the bodies of our young sons.

If the United States ever again stoops to expedients to avoid the difficult decisions that come with leadership, the heavy burdens that come with defense, we shall once more run the dangers of all halfway measures and waste our strength and conscience as a weathervane rather than a force.

To live bravely by convictions from which the free peoples of this world can take heart, the American people must put their faith in long-range policies—political, economic and military—that will not be heated and cooled with the brightening and waning of tension.

It is time we steered by the stars, not by the lights of each passing ship.

LONG-TERM LOANS

'Middle Group' Housing Asked

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Rep. Biemiller, Democrat, Wisconsin, yesterday introduced a bill intended to provide long-term housing loans for middle-income groups, with Government help.

"The middle-income group," he said in a statement, "is left out in present plans for housing our homeless millions. They are too rich to get into a Government project even if there were room available. They are too poor to buy a new house or an adequate old one."

Taft, Kingsley Clash On Truman Health Plan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An Administration spokesman said yesterday President Truman's health insurance program is the only alternative to State medicine, but Sen. Taft, Republican, Ohio, said he was wrong.

Taft disputed in particular the claim of J. Donald Kingsley, Acting Federal Security Administrator, that there is general agreement "that our present system of payment for medical care is totally inadequate."

"I don't agree with that at all," the Ohioan said.

Taft is the author of one of the principal substitutes offered for the system of nation-wide health insurance, to be financed by a payroll tax, which Mr. Truman is backing.

A Senate labor subcommittee opened hearings on the Administration Bill and a number of alternates for it which have been proposed.

Similar hearings are in progress in the House, but there appears only a remote chance that Congress will act this year. Supporters hope to have legislation ready in case there should be a special session next fall, or for action when Congress returns next January.

Kingsley, the first Senate witness, said the Federal Government already is supporting a big program of state medicine in which an estimated 24,000,000 persons receive some Federal aid.

"I am firmly and honestly convinced," he said, "that nothing short of the social insurance method can prevent the further—and eventually the complete—substitution of state for private medicine."

Taft told Kingsley that "I don't agree with your conclusions on a dozen different things."

He said he regards the Truman plan for a payroll tax and expansion of medical facilities and services as "a rather elaborate plan of grants and loans to all sorts of different people."

Kingsley said only an insurance plan can provide "a sound, firm, reliable economic foundation upon which private medicine can expand and flourish."

He declared that other proposals which have been advanced "rely in effect if not in purpose upon public charity—a medical dole."

The Administration bill calls for a payroll tax of 3 percent split between employee and employer on income up to $4,800 a year. There would be an additional sum from general tax receipts. Families of all contributing wage earners would be eligible for complete medical and hospital care. Doctors could choose their patients and patients their doctors.

Sponsors estimate the cost at about $6,000,000,000 a year and say it would cover about 120,000,000 persons.

Cancer Fund Tag Day Set On Thursday

Atlanta's much-delayed Tag Day for funds to fight cancer will be held Thursday.

Originally scheduled May 2, the Tag Day was called off when the Atlanta Fund Appeals Review Board frowned on the American Cancer Society's request for approval of the event.

A meeting between the Review Board and Cancer Society officials brought about a reversal from the Board, and plans for May 2 were reinstated.

Then, came the transit strike. Most of the 500 volunteers who were to serve as "pin-on" girls, reported they couldn't get downtown to do the job.

Cancer Society officials again postponed the Tag Day.

Now, with the approval of the Fund Appeals Review Board, and with transportation available, Mrs. Robert Troutman, Jr., the Society's Fulton County Commander, says she expects her workers to raise an estimated $5,000.

Volunteers have been recruited from 40 local PTA groups and from girls in the senior classes of local high schools.

Hooded Front Is All Quiet At Soperton

Constitution State News Service

SOPERTON—All was quiet on the hooded front yesterday following an incident last weekend when three masked men were jailed for disturbing the peace, Mayor Jim Peterson reported.

Mayor Peterson said there were no demonstrations of any sort in Soperton yesterday or Sunday.

The Mayor snatched the masks off the trio late Saturday after he received numerous telephone calls from "frightened women complaining of robed men roaming the streets."

Police Chief M. B. Ware arrested three men and identified them as Joe Green, Malcolm Braddy, and John Edge. They were released on $100 bonds. Their trial has been set for City Court June 13.

Dr. Samuel Green, Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Atlanta, was quoted incompletely in a story about the affair which ran in The Atlanta Constitution Monday.

The correct quotation was "Using a common expression, we don't like our dogs being kicked around by Mayors or anyone else."

Dr. Green declared further that Mayor Peterson "was in violation of Civil Rights as if I went into his office and jerked off his hat."

The Mayor said he ripped the masks off the men because they were disturbing the peace. He added that this area had been alerted for five escaped convicts, and "nobody knows how they might have disguised themselves."

Klan Bill Author Lauds Mayor for Mask Stripping

Rep. John Greer, of Lanier County, an author of a bill to unmask the Ku Klux Klan, last night highly praised Mayor James Peterson, of Soperton, for routing a group of Klansmen.

In a statement issued at Lakeland, Greer said:

"The vigorous and courageous stand taken against a bunch of hooded hoodlums in Soperton Saturday night by Mayor James Peterson deserves and surely brings him the thanks and commendation of every good citizen of the State of Georgia.

"His action should set a yardstick for the city and county officials of our State, many of whom are moving week by week to outlaw masked bands and parades and lawless acts in their own localities.

"One of the significant things about the affair at Soperton was the newspaper account of who took to their heels and did the running. The Klansmen, Dr. Green seems to have admitted they belonged to him—beat it for the woods and left Jim Peterson in command of the field. He has performed a splendid act of citizenship that will be of everlasting benefit to his town and his State."

Green's unmasking bill failed to pass in the 1949 Legislature.

Picnic Planned

MONTEZUMA—The Montezuma Junior Woman's Club held their last meeting of the year. The annual picnic of the club will be held at Houston Lake soon. Mrs. Jim Hays will succeed Mrs. Alex Cole in the presidency beginning with the Fall meeting.

Store Official's Office Serves Shoppers' Babies

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Sound of childish laughter and occasional tears replaced the click of typewriter keys in the office of a Rich's executive yesterday.

Diaper-aged tots crowded spiritedly on the floor.

Romper-aged youngsters played contentedly with their toys.

Five and six-year-olds discovered delightedly that office typewriters and comptometers were as fascinating as dolls or horns.

Standing watch over the small fry were staff assistants, secretaries and clerical help.

The improvised nursery was the result of an overflow crowd at a sale of 29-cent cotton goods in Rich's Basement.

"We had to do something," said Harry Spitzer, Advertising Manager. "Women with babies slung underarm were having a terrible time in the mob. . . . Ancel Leake, our Merchandise Manager, was out of town—and so we just gathered up all the children and put them in his office."

Shopping mothers were grateful for the secretary-baby sitters.

"They saved my life," exclaimed Mrs. J. H. Walker, of 2702 Campbellton Rd., S. W., as she collected nine-month-old Shirley. "I was trying to get some material to make her some dresses, but I could not do anything holding her in that crowd."

Mrs. Mary Fowler, Staff Assistant to the Merchandise Manager, was in charge of the nursery—and admitted her office work was "piling up."

Betty Burdett, a secretary, tried to console a crying baby but cheerfully said: "Most of the children have been very good."

Mrs. Fowler, who said this was the first time Rich's Basement had ever offered nursery service, concluded:

"Baby sitting is all right for a day—but I wouldn't swap my office work for it as a regular profession!"

form of recreation is "listening to the radio one night a week."

"There's going to be bloodshed there unless conditions are corrected," he said. "Those men aren't going to stand for that sort of treatment forever."

Meanwhile, Hatchett, in blaming recent breaks at the prison at Milledgeville on "carelessness of guards," told the State Board of Corrections yesterday that he had inspected the Gilmer Camp only last week and found the menu sufficient, the kitchen clean and a new dining room having been built.

He said the visit was impromptu, the Gilmer County officials not knowing that he was coming. He said he talked with the prisoners personally and "the only grievance made to me was that they weren't allowed radios except on weekends, and no newspapers."

Hatchett did say, however, that he found an overcrowded condition and it has been decided to reduce the number of inmates there by about 10 prisoners.

The recent prison breaks were the chief topic of discussion at the Board meeting, which saw the members name Hatchett to the position of Acting Director at Director's pay after Director R. E. Warren had been granted a 60-day leave of absence.

Warren asked for the leave without pay, giving busines and health reasons.

The Board also named Acting Supt. Walter Matthews as Superintendent of the Juvenile Honor Camp for Boys at Rome, on motion of Warren, and lauded Matthews' work there.

The Board voted to give prisoners a break by giving them one-half day's extra credit for good behavior for time worked on Saturday, and a full day's extra credit for Sunday work.

A new type uniform was adopted by the Board for all prisoners, and county wardens will be notified to make the change-over when the old ones wear out. The new uniform, which will replace khaki, will be gray with white braid on the trousers.

Warden R. P. Balkom, of Tattnall State Prison, reported conditions excellent there, and said 93,000 gallons of vegetables from the prison farm have been canned to date, compared with only 73,000 gallons for all of last year, and said vegetables are being supplied to Milledgeville and Battey State Hospitals.

Two attorneys, Jess Watson and Thomas E. Moran, a handless veteran, appeared before the Board to protest "brutality" he said had been practiced on a prisoner by a guard in Wayne County. Director Warren told the the guard had been dismissed, but also told them that the prisoner they represented is one of the worst in the entire State system.

and Chancellor Harmon Caldwell to appear before it Monday.

The witnesses have instructions to recommend economies and not to ask for more money, Sen. Walter Harrison, of Millen, said department heads could offer more economies if legislators ceased trying to use the departments for patronage.

After looking at the school operations, the probers will investigate the Health, Highway, Revenue and Welfare Departments.

The Revision Sub-Committee is headed by Speaker Pro-Tem George Smith, II, of Emanuel County.

At its organization meeting yesterday, Thrasher suggested merging many special taxes into one general luxury tax of 20 percent. This would cost the taxpayers no more, and would eliminate many tax collectors, he said.

William Lester, of Augusta, who has assembled much material on taxes during the two years' existence of the Tax Revision Committee, was retained as its Administrative Secretary.

Gov. Talmadge was named Chairman of the Committee at its organization session. Hand was chosen Vice Chairman, and Thrasher was re-elected Secretary.

The Committee's sessions will be open to the public. Monthly sessions will be held, beginning the second Monday in July.

At Talmadge's suggestion, the Committee decided to determine what economies can be effected in State Government first. Then it will consider tax revision.

"If economies and tax revision do not produce sufficient revenue, we will consider ways and means of providing revenue for the proper functions of the State Government," the Committee announced.

the plane lands the wheels are turning at the rate of 85 or 90 miles an hour — normal landing speed.

A representative of Lockheed, Ray Connors was especially fascinated by the fact the flying Constitution was visiting the home of The Atlanta Constitution, but he could provide no romantic connection between the two. The Navy plane was named for the U. S. frigate, The U. S. S. Constitution, which figured in the War Between the States. A model of the frigate adorns the cabin of the plane.

WAYCROSS—"Queen of Cuisine" will be the title of the lecture-demonstration to be presented by Martha Logan, nationally known home economist for Swift and Company, at 3 p. m. today at the City Auditorium.

Linn, who investigated, said the driver made a right turn into Washington Street from Mitchell, hit a car on the left hand side of the street driven by William F. Anderson. The taxi continued on, running a red light and ramming into the truck driven by Thomas F. Pastor of Route 3, Buford. The impact knocked the wheels out from under the truck and threw the cargo of cigarettes into Trinity Avenue.

Charges of reckless driving-accident were also booked against the truck and automobile drivers. Case was set for Recorder's Court tomorrow.

cut the ground out from under the Russians. I am also convinced that these gains in Western Europe will provide a solution for the Greek situation. If economic progress continues in Europe, the Greek situation is certain to work out satisfactorily in time."

Clay revealed that at no time during the hectic "cold war" period did he consider there was any serious danger of a "shooting war."

"Throughout all that period," the veteran Army engineer said, "it was wholly a political war. It is true that we were under tremendous strains and pressures. We were confronted with innumerable obstacles and provocations. But it was all political warfare. I can't recall any particular instance when the danger of a shooting war was imminent.

"Much was made of certain instances when Russian fighters crossed into our airlift corridor. But we put an end to that sort of thing without too much trouble. It was part of the pressure tactics and when we demanded it be stopped, it was stopped."

Clay also disclosed that throughout the tense period he and Russian Marshal Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor in Berlin, maintained amicable personal relations.

Clay expressed much concern regarding the economic situation in the Ruhr. He pointed out that there was grave "danger" that German steel and coal exports may drop.

"The Ruhr is run by an international authority which determines prices and exports," he said. "That is all very well while there is a world shortage of coal and steel. But that shortage seems to be disappearing. The Belgians and Poles, who are big steel producers, are worried about their export markets. If the world price for coal and steel drops, the Ruhr will have a very difficult time to meet competitive prices."

Clay vigorously defended the sentences meted out to the Nazi perpetrators of the massacre of U. S. prisoners of war and unarmed civilians at Malmedy during the Battle of the Bulge. A Senate Committee is now holding hearings on the trial of these former German SS men.

tion of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce for sabotaging the President's program.

"It is amazing to realize," she said, "that such organizations as the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the Daughters of the Revolution can pass resolutions against the President's program, which will be put into effect eventually."

She pointed at the League of Women Voters for their "non-partisan" position, exhorted them to be bi-partisan, but never neutral.

I don't know how one can be anything but for or against an issue," she said. "That is the very reason for the practice of politics."

A favorable reference to the President's Health Plan brought a question from a doctor's wife about Anna Arnold Hedgeman, new Assistant to Administrator Oscar Ewing in the FSA.

"Anna Arnold Hedgeman," said Mrs. Edwards, "is a capable, educated, conscientious Negro woman. She is one of our assistants and will not necessarily devote her whole time to the health plan."

She drew fire on her remarks on the new Georgia Re-Registration Law, demanding that the League of Women Voters and other women's groups bet gehind it to see that Georgia has the largest registration in history. "You can make it a good law," she said, "whether you like it or not."

Mrs. Edwards was introduced by Ralph McGill, Editor of The Constitution. Mrs. Murdoch Equen, President of the Club, presided.

Many Key Stocks Hit New Lows for Year

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market dropped to the lowest average level in nearly three months Monday.

Weakness in the steel group paved the way for a general decline. Losses of fractions to nearly two points were enough to push many key issues to new low prices for the year.

The market started out on a one-way price route and stayed on it throughout the session. One or two feeble attempts at a comeback developed in selected issues, but they lacked any drive and final prices in numerous cases were at the lows of the day.

Trading volume contracted on the way down. Turnover amounted to only 720,000 shares, compared with 740,000 Friday. It was one of the slowest days of the year.

The decline was a gradual settling into lower price territory rather than an abrupt retreat. Selling pressure never amounted to much, but buyers could be tempted only by persistent price reductions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost .4 of one point at 62.5. Industrial stocks showed the largest average loss, followed by rails and utilities.

The average was at the lowest figure since 62.4 was touched on Feb. 28 and within easy shooting distance of the 1949 low of 61.4.

Of the 963 industrial stocks which changed hands, 573 fell back and only 140 advanced.

The day's news had the same bitter taste that Wall Street has come to expect during recent weeks: Declining orders for machine tools, lumber, and freight cars, another decline in steel production schedules another cut in the price of lead, and another reduction by General Motors on its passenger cars and trucks.

It was questionable, though, according to financial observers whether this latest series of business contractions acted as a selling stimulant. In view of the small volume of business, the answer would appear to be "no." Rather, it was suggested, buyers re-affirmed the attitude of caution with which they have viewed the market for so long.

A notable feature of the day's trade was the weakness in what are generally considered better-grade stocks. Several steels hit new lows for the year, along with such stalwarts as Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, Santa Fe, and American Telephone. General Motors equaled its low. It was thought possible that offerings of this type of securities may have come from some of the stronger investment interests.

The decline to a low since Feb. 28 sounded more impressive than was actually the case. The market has wobbled along in such a narrow range for so long that a change of any size looms comparatively large.

It was considered likely that the general price level is entering territory where short covering operations on a fairly large scale might develop. The Exchange recently reported that the outstanding short interest on May 13 amounted to more than 1,600,000 shares, largest since 1933.

A total of 76 new lows for the year were touched during the day while only nine stocks reached new highs.

Curb losers included Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Barium Steel, Arkansas Natural Gas "A" Northrop Aircraft, Mead Johnson and Humble Oil, the last down 2½. Great Northern Paper improved, along with Rotary Electric Steel and Gray Mfg. sales of 170,000 shares compared with 200,000 Friday.

Declines of fractions to more than a point affected a long list of corporate issues in Monday's bond market. Although activity was limited, what selling pressure there was appeared to be directed against some of the lower priced railroad obligations. Other sections were relatively steady.

NAM Asks 'Bold Plan' Development

NEW YORK—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers wants President Truman to try out his "bold new program" on "one specific country" right away.

In a report on the President's plan for economic improvement of underdeveloped areas, the NAM urged yesterday that: "Our Government negotiate, as rapidly as possible, a bilateral treaty with one specific country which desires assistance in economic development. This treaty would be the pattern for a series of similar bilateral agreements."

The report was released by Curtis E. Calder, Chairman of Electric Bond and Share Company, and head of NAM's International Relations Committee.

The United States Government should not guarantee investors here against loss abroad, but should see to it, through treaties, that the underdeveloped countries "create the conditions under which American enterprise can undertake to send abroad capital and technical skills and experience," Calder said.

These conditions, NAM held, should include: foreign countries putting their fiscal houses in order and stabilizing their currencies; guaranteeing fair treatment to American investors; permitting Americans to get their profits out in dollars; and eliminating double taxation.

Grain Prices Firm In Quiet Trading

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grains did not attract much trading, but they gave a pretty good display of firmness Monday. With wheat gaining more than a cent, the entire market had a steady undertone right from the start.

Some buying of wheat came from houses with Eastern connections. Corn gained on a better demand for the cash grain in the spot market. Rye jumped a couple of cents at times in sympathy with strength at Winnipeg. Lard was aided by another advance in hogs.

Major feature everywhere was a lack of selling pressure. Dealers said this apparently reflected the fact that major grains are selling so far below potential Government support levels on cash crops that there was little incentive to sell.

Wheat closed 1¼-1⅝ higher, July $1.97½; corn was ⅝ to 1 cent higher, July $1.32⅞-1.33; oats were ⅜ lower to ⅜ higher, July 62 cents; rye was 2 cents higher, July $1.41; soybeans were ½ to 2 cents higher, July $2.25-2.25¼, and lard was 5 to 8 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $11.62.

CASH GRAIN

SECOND CUT $10-$40

General Motors Reduces Price of All Cars, Trucks

DETROIT—(UP)—General Motors Corporation announced its second price cuts in three months yesterday. They ranged from $10 to $40 on all its cars and trucks.

The reductions were the same as the company made on Feb. 25, which started a wave of price reductions through most of the major auto producers.

C. E. Wilson, GM President, said the cuts were to "pass on to consumers" the savings resulting from a new wage cut under its cost-of-living wage scale contract with the CIO United Auto Workers.

Prices on Chevrolets, GM's cheapest car, were sliced $10 on all models. It brought the factory price of a 4-door Chevrolet sedan down to $1,461.

Hourly rated employees will receive a wage cut of one-cent an hour for June, July and August. Wage scales of the 273,000 production workers go up and down according to the Bureau of Labor Statistitcs' cost-of-living index.

Approximately 68,000 salaried personnel will receive a cut of $5 per quarter starting June 1.

A three-cent hourly "improvement factor" in the novel contract, however, will give the employees a net increase of two cents per hour effective May 29.

GM's "second round" decrease stole a march on the other companies, including Chrysler and Studebaker, which have not yet made their first postwar cuts.

Each of the GM cuts averaged slightly under one percent. Ford, the other member of the automotive "Big Three," which has cut prices, sliced about three percent.

The individual GM divisions announced their new car prices separately. Cadillac prices dropped $25 to $40 and Buick decreased $16 to $30. Pontiac made a $15 across-the-board cut. The cuts were identical with the earlier slash.

Oldsmobile chipped $15 from its Series "76" Models and $20 from its Series "88" and "98."

The company announcement said the cut reflected "the lowered cost of certain material items," in addition to the downward adjustment of wages.

Prior to GM's two price cuts, the company had raised prices with the introduction of each postwar model.

The cost-of-living index which touched off the new price cut was announced as 169.7. It was a drop of 1.2 points from the previous quarterly figure.

It was the second pay cut under the GM-UAW contract. Hourly rated wages were sliced two cents in February, but the workers will still make 14 cents an hour more than a year ago because of the improvement factor and previous increases.

The last auto maker to raise prices was Chrysler, which upped the tags on its four lines an average of 6.7 percent one day before the first GM cut. Since that crest, GM, Willys-Overland, Kaiser-Frazer, Ford, Nash, Hudson, Austin and Packard have jumped on the price-cut bandwagon.

The largest cuts were by Willys and Kaiser-Frazer, which reduced prices approximately 10 percent.

New York Cotton Futures Drift Lower

NEW YORK — (AP) — Cotton futures drifted lower Monday on scattered liquidation and hedging which met indifferent trade demand. Declining domestic cotton consumption and a lack of covering in futures against export sales contributed to the dullness in the market.

Shippers estimated that the greater part of some 300,000 bales of additional cotton being purchased under recent ECA credits has already been completed. This concerned the second quarter authorizations in which the cotton must be shipped by June 15.

Tokyo advices said that the Japanese Board of Trade is again seeking offers of cotton against its total inquiry for some 165,000 bales over a period of several months.

New Orleans Cotton Sees Small Declines

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Price movements were narrow in cotton futures here Monday with scattered long liquidation and light hedge selling causing small declines. Closing prices were steady, unchanged to 20 cents a bale lower.

Favorable weather in most sections of the belt, a house appropriation committee's cut of 15 percent in Economic Cooperation Administration spending, and unfavorable reports from leading cotton goods centers were against values.

April Sales Nose Out March's by 1 Percent

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Retail sales in April ran almost one percent higher than in March, but still lagged two percent under April of last year after allowing for seasonal differences.

The Commerce Department, reporting this yesterday, estimated the April total at $11,060,000,000. On its seasonally adjusted index, April sales were 232 percent above the 1935-39 monthly average. The monthly index has shown relatively little change since last January.

Monthly comparisons were complicated by the fact that Easter fell on April 17 this year, whereas in 1948 it came on March 23, in both cases stimulating business in the immediately preceding weeks.

Measuring changes from March to April, and taking into account the Easter influence along with the difference in number of trading days, etc., the Department reported that:

General merchandise, clothing stores, eating and drinking places and filling stations registered sales of one to two percent. Food store sales were off about one percent. Most other non-durable food stores fared about the same in both months.

Auto sales, continuing upward with increased production of new cars, rose about four percent, but sales of the building material and hardware group dropped about four percent. Home furnishings sold about the same in both months.

Wholesale Toys Displayed by New Firm Here

A new wholesale business displayed its wares—toys—in Atlanta yesterday as it opened a week-long toy show.

It is the Southern Toy and Novelty Company, at 150 Pine St., N. E. Its owners and managers claim it is the only organization of its kind in the South.

Jack D. Perkins, formerly head of the toy department of Moore-Handley Hardware Company, in Birmingham, and Fred H. Maier, long with the Milton Bradley Company, of Atlanta and Springfield, Mass., are in charge of the company's activities.

They will direct a sales organization in the Southern States.

Perkins and Maier pointed out that their wholesale business will allow retailers to find a wide variety of toys and wheeled goods in one place, to handle their orders in any size and take care of storage. They said they will handle many lines of nationally advertised goods.

Phone Rates Up In New England

BOSTON—(UP)—The New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. yesterday was granted permission to boost its rates by about $7,000,000.

The ruling was made by Massachusetts Supreme Court Justice Harold P. Williams, who stayed a State Public Utilities Department order denying the increase. He ordered the company to file a $1,000,000 bond to cover possible refunds if the full bench of the court failed to uphold his decision.

The boost was the last part of a $15,000,000 raise asked last year. The PUD already has granted the company permission in two separate rulings in the past three months to boost the rates by $5,000,000 and $3,000,000.

CIO Textile Chief Urges Greater Production

By WELLINGTON WRIGHT

"Greater production ought to equal higher wages and lower prices," Emil Rieve, General President of CIO's Textile Workers' Union of America, said here yesterday as he officated at the formal opening of his Southern Regional Office at 33 Pryor Street.

"That is a basic plank in my economic creed," explained Rieve. "I believe in the capitalistic system and I don't see how we can continue to maintain that system without those three factors—greater production, higher wages and lower prices."

Rieve said that these three factors operate in a cycle. Greater production, he indicated, means lower costs and hence lower prices, while higher wages are the reward for the efficiency which creates greater production.

In advocating the capitalistic society, Rieve took exception to the term "free enterprise" as a name for that society.

"Free enterprise is a mirage," he said. "It just doesn't exist. What we really have is a society of regulated capitalism and that's what I believe in."

As part of the CIO campaign to organize the Southern textile industry, Rieve said that he intends to spend a good deal of his time in his Atlanta office. His main office is in New York City.

Rieve denied that the current business slump is found mainly in the textile industry.

"You find it in every consumer goods industry in America," he said.

How long this slump will last, Rieve said he couldn't predict. But he was emphatic in asserting that his Union will oppose any effort to reduce wage scales in the textile industry. He said workers are entitled to a "decent wage" in order to maintain a "decent living standard." Asked his definition of a "decent wage," he said:

"That depends on the particular conditions. A rate of one dollar an hour may be a decent wage in some circumstances, while two dollars an hour might not be too much in other circumstances. Certainly, we intend to fight any effort to reduce textile wag s from the present basic rate of 94 cents an hour."

Rieve expressed himself as optimistic over the economic future of the South, but he urged a greater diversification of industry in this region.

"At present, you have too many textiles in relation to other industries," he said. "The South's economy will be better balanced when it has more heavy industries, like steel and steel products, to stand alongside its textiles."

The Executive Council of TWUA, meeting here yesterday, passed two resolutions—one urging Congress to raise the minimum wage to 75 cents an hour, with an amendment providing procedures for raising that figure to $1 an hour and the other favoring the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law.

On another front, John Chupka, Director of TWUA's Woolen and Worsted Division, advised member locals no to seek wage boosts in contract negotiations starting Aug. 1. Herbert W. Payne, Director of TWUA's Synthetic Yarn Division, said that Chupka's announcement applied only to the Woolen and Worsted Division and that other divisions are undecided as to what they will do in the new wage negotiations.

Senate Approves Bill Outlawing Overtime Claims

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Senate yesterday passed and sent back to the House a bill outlawing so-called "overtime on overtime" pay claims in industry generally on a retroactive basis.

The Senate action was by voice vote.

A bill recently passed by the House outlaws such claims only in the longshore stevedoring industry and the building construction industry. Also, the House bill has no retroactivity provision.

The Senate bill would nullify any claim filed since the enactment of the wage and hour law in 1933. However, Sen. Hill, Democrat, Alabama, Chairman of the Senate Labor Subcommittee which drafted the measure, has said he does not believe it would have any effect on claims already paid.

The overtime on overtime pay claims generally arose from a Supreme Court decision last year.

Steel Output Falls Below '48 Rate

NEW YORK—(AP)—For the first time this year, output of the Nation's steel mills this week will fall short of the tonnage produced in the corresponding 1948 period.

This was reported yesterday by the American Iron and Steel Institute which said steel plants were scheduled to operate a 94.1 percent of their rated capacity.

In the same week a year ago, the operating rate was higher at 96.8 percent.

Says Road Pay Roll Cut

State Highway Director Jim Gillis said yesterday there are only 2,159 persons on the Highway Department pay roll—59 fewer than were on the rolls Dec. 31, 1948, "and we're doing five times the work now."

Gillis' figures were widely at variance with a United Press story published Sunday that said State budget records showed 3,530 employees in the Highway Department, compared with 3,188 a year ago under the administration of Acting Gov. Thompson.

The Highway Director said the present employment of 2,159 compares with 2,218 on the pay rolls Dec. 31. He said the field construction force has been reduced this year from 1,157 to 1,111, and the maintenance force from 613 to 607. Pay rolls of the administration accounts, including highway planning, have been trimmed from 220 to 203, he said, and the only increase has been in the operating accounts, including drafting departments, laboratories and shops, up from 228 to 238.

Plea Deadline Near

The State of Georgia has only 10 days to act, if it wants the U. S. Supreme Court to review a Federal Circuit Court order at Philadelphia that last week freed a convicted slayer who escaped from Cobb County in 1943. This was reported from Philadelphia, where court attendants said Georgia is not in a position to ask for a review, since it did not become an official party to the appeal of Leon Johnson, the 34-year-old Negro, Georgia wanted extradited.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook has said he will appeal the Circuit Court order, which blasted Georgia's penal system as cruel and inhumane, to the U. S. Supreme Court. In Cook's office yesterday was a copy of the Congressional Record, including a speech last Saturday by Rep. James C. Davis, who charged Federal Circuit Judge John Biggs, Jr., in writing the court's majority opinion, was guilty of "aiding and abetting the escape of a criminal."

Acting Director of Corrections J. B. Hatchett said "if it becomes known that somebody can kill in Georgia and be free in Pennsylvania, that cheapens the life of the average person in Georgia, and loads Pennsylvania with desperate criminals."

NewPipeDoubles Water Supply In Hapeville

A new 20-inch water main, now serving Hapeville and the Municipal Airport, is expected to alleviate Hapeville's former perennial Summer water shortage.

"Hapeville residents—for the first time in many years—will have enough water for all their needs this Summer," J. L. Gillespie, City Engineer, declared.

The new main supplements the old inadequate eight-inch Stewart Avenue line, which even with the addition of booster pumps as a stop-gap measure, had proved inadequate. A valve turned on at Springdale Road and North Avenue, opening the new line, immediately sent 1,600 gallons of water per minute gushing into the City reservoir.

Hapeville's water supply is more than doubled by the new line, Gillespie said. Two tanks of 100,000 gallons each constitute Hapeville's entire reservoir storage.

The line also ends fire hazards, according to Gillespie.

Civitans To Hear Birmingham Mayor

Mayor Cooper Green, of Birmingham, Ala., will speak to a luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Civitan Club at 12:30 p. m. today at the Atlanta Athletic Club. His subject will be "You and Your City."

A Birmingham Civitan of long standing, Mayor Green is returning Mayor William Hartsfield's earlier visit. Mayor Hartsfield will introduce Green.

Green is in his tenth year as Mayor of Birmingham. He served as Birmingham postmaster seven years. Prior to tha. he was representative for Birmingham and Jefferson County in the Alabama State Legislature.

Hall Plea Rejected

The State Pardon and Parole Board has declined to reconsider its action in October, 1948, in denying a parole to Roy Hall, race driver serving time for robbery, burglary and speeding convictions. An appeal to reconsider was made on Hall's behalf May 10. Under the Board's ruling last year, Hall will be eligible for consideration for parole in October, 1949.

Cook Speaks

Neither a meeting of the Tax Revision Committee nor a hailstorm could keep Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook from heading for Wrightsville late yesterday to address commencement exercises in his home town high school last night. Cook attended part of the Tax Revision Committee meeting and then struck out for South Georgia in the rain. He is scheduled to address the Elberton Rotary Club back in North Georgia today, and will speak at Logansville tonight.

New Magazine

Adj. Gen. Ernest Vandiver, Jr., yesterday presented Gov. Talmadge with the first edition of The Georgia Guardsman, a new monthly magazine of the Georgia National Guard Association. With a circulation of approximately 8,000, the publication will be distributed to all members of the National Guard in Georgia. The first issue has a picture of the Governor on the cover.

Farm Production Methods Is Sibley Rotary Club Topic

Sun and rain are being used as instruments of productivity in Georgia, whereas only a short time ago these weather factors were being used as instruments of destruction.

John Sibley, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Trust Company of Georgia, and former President of the Farmers Club of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, made this statement yesterday in speaking to the Atlanta Rotary Club.

Sibley said farmers in the State are replacing the old row crop method of farming which depleted the soil with methods which are restoring the fertility of the land.

Others on the program were J. W. Fanning, of the Agricultural Extension Service, and Trammell Carmichael, President of the Avery Community Club, which won first prize in the 1948 North Georgia Farm Improvement Contest sponsored by the Farmers Club of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY AFFAIRS

'Run Off From Home'

A middle-aged woman, mother of seven children, yesterday complained to county authorities that her husband, a West Fulton sawmill worker, had "run me and the five least ones off from home a week ago." Clerk T. E. Compton, of Fulton Criminal Court, issued a warrant for Paul Cater, 47, charging him with abandonment of minor children.

Discuss New Projects

Fulton public works officials and engineers will hold a special meeting at 10 a. m. Saturday to discuss building projects now underway, Commissioner Jim Aldredge announced yesterday.

Model Plane Meet

Commissioners yesterday gave Georgia Plymouth dealers permission to hold a model plane meet in North Fulton Park July 9 and 10.

Miss Blackburn Back

Miss Annie Ruth Blackburn, attache of the office of Sol. John I. Kelley, returned to work yesterday after an illness of several days.

Winter Vacations

Employees of the public works department who must be building while hot, sunshiny weather lasts, will get their holidays next Winter, the county board decreed yesterday. Manager A. E. Fuller, A. F. McDonald, Director of Public Works, and William G. Patton, Chief of Construction, will arrange for employees to have Saturdays off during the months of November, December, January and February.

Too Many State Employees?

The United Press reports Gov. Talmadge's administration has 607 more State employees this quarter than during the similar period of Acting Gov. Thompson's administration.

Recalling Gov. Talmadge's campaign promises to reduce the number of State employees, we trust he is giving this report his study and that he will act if he finds that any departments are overdoing the patronage "job" angle.

Jim Gillis, Chairman of the Highway Department, indignantly disputes the accuracy of the charge. He declares he has fewer employees now than the department had when he, Gillis, took it over at the end of the Thompson administration. He also points out, and fairness compels one to admit the justness of his claim, that at this same period a year ago the Thompson administration was doing no road work and had little need for a great number of highway employees. Many were added in the closing months of the campaign and Chairman Gillis says he has 59 less than when he took over.

Off-hand, however, we can think of no other department which needs more employees. The Highway Department is doing more work. We hope Gov. Talmadge will see to it that his campaign pledge of reducing the number of employees is carried out. Some of the department heads obviously can't stand the pressure.

Incidentally, we wish the Legislature would give thought to a plan for allowing, and requiring, department heads to hire efficient workers at better wages so that three inefficient persons need not be hired to do the work one good one could do.

Soperton Unmasks the Klan

Now and then something happens to prove the real American spirit isn't dead. Down in Soperton, Ga., Mayor Jim Peterson unmasked the Klan in the simplest fashion we've yet encountered. He simply yanked the masks off some of the brave boys who were frightening some of the citizens of his town.

As might be expected, the Klan, famous for its shootings and its killings in the twenties, and for its beatings and abuse of citizens by moblike violence today, is shrieking about "rights." For the Klan to be talking about rights, with its record of ignoring the rights of others, is the sort of gall that would cause a self-respecting buzzard to gag.

If the Klan will check its record, it will find that it was believed responsible for a murder near Soperton in the twenties when a newspaper editor opposing them was killed. There have been Negro churches burned since that time and other acts of terrorism committed.

Every decent man is behind Mayor Jim Peterson.

The Klan is listed as a subversive, un-American organization. It long has been. It also is an anti-Christian organization, prostituting the Cross of Christ and violating the Commandments and the Golden Rule every time it meets and dishonors Christianity and its country by its acts.

This Makes Sense!

Among many suggestions for raising more revenue in Georgia one that has much merit is that of Jeff Davis, Lowndes County Tax Commissioner.

Davis wants a law to require an applicant for an automobile license to show proof of payment of all State and county taxes on the car. He speaks what is common knowledge among county officials when he says that thousands of car owners never get around to paying those taxes.

The proposal of the Lowndes County Tax Commissioner is a fair one.

He who cannot afford to pay the taxes on his automobile can't afford to drive it. And he that can afford to and won't shouldn't get to drive it.

No license plate without the proper tax receipts would make many a delinquent car owner ante up.

4-H Clubs' Hybrid Corn

Cobb County Kiwanians last year gave hybrid seed corn to 33 4-H Club boys.

Those boys took that seed and produced an average of 72 bushels to the acre, 59 bushels above the 13-bushel county average.

The 13 4-H members to whom the Kiwanis Club gave improved cotton seed raised an average of more than 500 pounds of lint to the acre as compared to a county average of 240 pounds.

Such is the report made in a recent issue of Kiwanews, publication of the Kiwanis Club at Marietta.

The club bulletin comments:

"The yields produced by these young men prove that with the advice of a capable county agent, with the help of good seed, with intelligent use of fertilizer, and with improved methods of cultivation, more corn and cotton can be produced per acre in Cobb County."

You can say that for any other Georgia county.

Providing good seed and good training for an ambitious young farmer is pretty apt to pay off.

The civic organization that encourages such a combination is rendering a real community service.

Economy Requires More Than Lip Service

Commentators stand accused of inconsistency who, while the national economy is in a period of "readjustment," back one spending program after another and at the same time render lip service to the cause of retrenchment. Yet, if it be agreed that economy is a necessary Government contribution to the readjustment, there must be more than lip service to retrenchment.

On Capitol Hill economy is winning more and more advocates, and without regard to party. There are the 5 percenters—those who would pare administrative costs by a method which at the most would save the Government $1,500,000,000. Others are said to be lining up behind Sen. Russell's proposal for a three-billion-dollar slash as a final amendment to the concluding appropriation. And, of course, there is always Sen. Byrd, who wants to repeal the exemption of the military agencies, the Veterans Administration, and other bureaus from the current Federal personnel ceilings set up several years ago by Congress, and fix new over-all ceilings.

Over-all reduction of appropriations on a percentage basis is admittedly a crude device for reducing governmental costs. But it appears to be the only feasible method of effecting substantial economies until accounting reforms and changes in methods of handling appropriation bills are introduced that would enable Congress to determine the cost of specific functions and activities and obtain a comprehensive picture of all governmental spending programs. It will take a long time to bring about these much-needed reforms, even if Congress consents to make them. Meanwhile, expenses are likely to reach unmanageable proportions unless drastic action is taken soon.

The 5 percent reduction in Labor-Federal Security appropriations proposed by Sens. Bridges and Ferguson, which has now been rejected in the Senate, was not as undiscriminating as it superficially appeared to be. For the amendment provided that cuts could be made in varying percentage amounts at the discretion of the heads of the agencies concerned, with the approval of the Director of the Budget, if the aggregate required amounted to 5 percent.

Moreover, appropriations for public assistance grants-in-aid, unemployment compensation and other outlays that represent obligations to which the Government is committed would have remained untouched. The reductions, confined to administrative outlays, according to Sen. Ferguson's estimates, would not have exceeded $15,000,000. There may still be a chance of effecting economy by the method advocated by Sen. Russell.

The fact that economy in actual practice entails hardship for some people is another reason why Congress hesitates to take strong action to bring down Government costs. Nevertheless, no employer, not even the Government, can for humanitarian reasons spend for the sake of providing jobs for men and women when the costs are not justified by the results and, in the case of the Government, lead to the overburdening of the taxpaying public—at a time, moreover, when the state of the national economy calls imperatively for retrenchment. There would be no hope of Hoover reorganization—the wisest economy measure of all—if such an inhibition were to prevail.

JOHN MARVIN RAST

A rich man speaketh, and all keep silence; and what he says they extol to the clouds: A poor man speaketh and they say, Who is this? And if he stumble, they will help to overthrow him.—Ecclesiasticus 13:22, 23.

To the Apocryphal book of Ecclesiasticus we turn for an incisive analysis of society.

Without mincing of words the indictment is brought against class consciousness and class conscience—the conscience that justifies and defends the ranking of persons by the abundance of things which they possess.

We cannot pass it up with a shrug of the shoulders, saying, "Oh well, that was in the long ago in a king-slave order. It does not apply to our age and our country with its democratic processes."

We have but to open our eyes to the situation in our own community to realize that it does apply and that the material mindedness is the major blight of our common life.

WHETHER WE HAVE LITTLE or much, grant, Father, that our attitudes and sympathies may accord with the well-being of Thy family in Heaven and on earth.

Henry Grady And 99 Years

Henry Grady was born 99 years ago today. He came to full flower, like a blossom opened early by a warm and sunny Spring, as editor of The Atlanta Constitution, dying of pneumonia when he was but a few months past his thirty-eighth birthday.

There was a certain symbolism in the fact that he took the cold which progressed into pneumonia, by his insistence on remaining bare of head on a raw, wet day in the presence of the piece of stone historically designated as "Plymouth Rock," he having gone to see it from Boston, where he had spoken.

Union Grady, in his last years, worked with great intensity to bring the South back into full partnership in the Union. He was asking of the "prostrate and bleeding South, misguided, perhaps, but beautiful in her suffering, and honest, brave and generous always," that it use that courage and honesty to face the future and take from it her share of industry and commerce. He died before he saw the meaning of the laws and rates being established which would keep the South a source of raw materials and make the getting of that industry difficult.

But he never dodged the fact the South, while retaining all that was noble and good in her past, must nevertheless first think of herself as American. He began his first great New England speech, the one which was to give him national attention:

"There was a South of slavery and secession—that South is dead. There is a South of union and freedom—that South, thank God, is living, breathing, growing every hour."

1850 Born in Athens, Ga., in 1850, he graduated from the University in 1868 and came into the life and politics of the State as a young man with open eyes, an intelligent, inquiring mind, and a sensitive heart.

His childhood had been the ante-bellum South of slavery. His young manhood was that of the shocking stupidities, cruelties and injustice of the Reconstruction period. That it did not warp his mind or give him the withdrawal complex, best illustrated today by that of the "Dixiecrats," is testimony not merely of his intelligence, but of his vision and courage.

Concept He opposed centralization of power in Washington. His concept of the future was that instead of Government adjusting the unbalance of the Southern economy, as is being done today by Federal aid to highways, to health, to old-age pensions and social security, generally, and to education, as is proposed, that it be done by Eastern industry moving South. None sought the Yankee dollar more assiduously than he. The avidity of his seeking, and the glowing colors of his words, caused Tom Watson, the Grange, and the Populists to denounce him as a tool of Eastern capitalists; to accuse him as the patron of the already growing evil of absentee ownership, and to call him an agent of "Big Business."

Watson "Grady," wrote Watson, in bitterness, "never sees the lean, hungry cow of the farmer in the grip of the lien system, giving off blue, thin milk for hungry children. Grady sees only fat cows in lush pastures. Grady never sees the miserable, hungry children and their parents in the slum hovels that grow up about the mills he brings, but only the dollar signs in the smoke from the stacks. . . ."

There was some truth in that charge of Grady's enthusiasm, but none at all in the accusation he was a tool or an agent. Grady never had a mean thought and he loved the South with a passion which drove him to equalize her place in the nation. So precipitate was his rushing effort, and so short his time of life, that he never had time to see the cynical development of the web of tariff; the bank credit system which was to produce the violence and bitterness of the Populist revolt; the freight rates which were to favor the East and starve the South.

How effective that system was is revealed by the study made at Grady's alma mater in the early thirties, which revealed that the South's percentage of the nation's industry was almost the same in 1930 as in 1865 . . . a shocking fact, graphically illustrating how tremendous had been the industrial development of the East and Midwest.

Grady saw the South didn't have it. His most famous illustration is from his speech in 1889, but a brief time before his death. He said he had attended a funeral in Pickens County:

". . . They buried him in the midst of a mable quarry; they cut through solid marble to make his grave; and yet a little tombstone they put above him was from Vermont. They buried him in the heart of a pine forest, and yet the pine coffin was imported from Cincinnati. They buried him within touch of an iron mine, and yet the nails in his coffin and the iron in the shovel that dug his grave were imported from Pittsburgh. They buried him beside the best sheep-grazing country on the earth, and yet the wool in the coffin bands and the coffin bands themselves were brought from the North. The South didn't furnish a thing . . . for that funeral but the corpse and the hole in the ground. There they put him away and the clods rattled down on his coffin, and they buried him in a New York coat and a Boston pair of shoes and a pair of breeches from Chicago and a shirt from Cincinnati, leaving him nothing to carry into the next world to remind him of the country in which he lived, and for which he fought for four years, but the chill of blood in his veins and the marrow in his bones. . . ."

Had Grady lived he would have seen, finally how the greed of financial power in the East was choking the South. He would have been a Roosevelt Democrat, because once he saw the toughly woven curtain of laws and rates and tariffs which shut off the South, he would have set out to tear it down. He was a great soul, and a greater heart, and he loved the South enough to want it to become a full partner in every benefit every other American had by virtue of being an American.

A New Far East Policy Coming?

WASHINGTON—For four long, sorry years, American policy in the Far East has floated, to put it plainly, like a chip of driftwood on a sluggish open sewer. The result has been the disaster in China. But this disaster has at least had a certain shock value. It has at least just led to the decision to formulate a clear, non-floating Far Eastern policy. And this is a great gain, even though it is not yet known precisely what the new policy will be.

The decision has just been taken with the blessing of President Truman. Ever since he took office, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson has been pressing for a positive definition of our Far Eastern interests and program. Last week he is understood to have raised the question again, pointing out the need for some sort of action before policy-making was suspended by the departure of Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson for the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Concurrently, the State Department was also moving away from its previous hand-wringing passivity toward the Far East. Other influences were no doubt at work as well. At any rate, Acheson wisely agreed that we could no longer go on "waiting for the Far Eastern dust to settle," as the earlier attitude was euphemistically described.

Turn The chances are rather heavy that this does not mean any serious effort will be made to save the remains of non-Communist China. The task in China seems to be regarded as too difficult, even though Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's visit to Washington, to urge aid for China, helped to bring the matter to a head. On the other hand, the new decision very definitely means that all the rest of Asia will not be permitted to fall into the grip of the Soviet Union without protest or obstruction from this country.

This was, hitherto, the great danger. As Gen. Chennault very cogently argued, the loss of China directly threatens all of Southeast Asia. And if the wide, rich territories of Indo-China, Siam, Malaya, Burma and Indonesia should all be permitted to go the way of China, then both Japan and India would also be directly imperiled. Now, however, a line will be drawn somewhere to halt this process of Soviet conquest in the Far East. This is a great turning point, like the turning point when a line was drawn at the Greek and Turkish borders, to halt the process of Soviet aggrandizement in Europe and the Mediterranean.

Why? "Better late than never" is the only possible comment. "But why so late?" is a question that may well be asked. The answer goes back to the period of 1941-44. That was the time when Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and several of the most influential members of the State Department Far Eastern division were, for varying reasons, pursuing a sort of private war against the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The battles of those days ended with Stilwell's replacement by Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer. But their effects lived on. On a lower level, the majority opinion in the State Department Far Eastern division continued bitterly opposed to any effective aid to the anti-Communist forces in China. And on the highest level, Gen. Stilwell's bitter personal hatred of Chiang Kai-shek and his government also left its heritage.

Difficulties In Nanking, the representations of Gen. Wedemeyer went unheard. In Washington, although Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett was allowed a free hand in all other fields, he could do nothing to secure decisions on Far Eastern policy. Marshall simply sat on the whole problem.

Sec. Acheson took office under the influence of the views of Gen. Marshall, whom he deeply and very naturally admires. There was grave danger that our Far Eastern policy would continue to float, even after China had been lost. But now, fortunately, a different course has been chosen. Thus it is time to let bygones be bygones, and to prepare for the arduous and probably extremely disagreeable tasks of the future.

They All Want To Learn English

BUENOS AIRES—"The trouble dow n here," complains Bob Neville, the Time correspondent recently transferred to BA from India, "is that I can't find anybody to practice my Spanish on. They all w ant to practice their English on me."

Thinking to solve the problem by having someone in his own employ to whom he could give orders in Spanish, at will, Mr. Neville put an ad in the paper for an office boy for whom he really had no need. There were numerous applicants.

Almost without exception, they began: "I came about the ad. I am anxious to get the job. It will help me with my English . . ."

Mr. Neville, in desperation, hired Pedro. Pedro is a chauffeur. Pedro is not too much of a driver. But Pedro knows no English. And, unlike the majority of Argentines, Pedro does not seem to want to learn. With Pedro, Mr. Neville is quite pleased.

It makes you feel quite provincial, realizing that almost everyone in Buenos Aires speaks two lauguages and many citizens three and four.

It gives you a sort of sense of shame, seeing the eagerness with which the Argentines learn English, that in the States there is such an apathy toward the teaching of Spanish.

I had a couple of years of French in high school and two more in college. It comes in quite handy with menus. I also had two years of Latin. They told me at the time I would learn to appreciate it later. I am still waiting.

I can't help thinking, every time I struggle through an explanation to a policeman who has caught me going in the wrong direction on a one-way street—cops are the exception to the rule that everybody in BA speaks English—I can't help thinking how much better my time would have been spent learning Spanish than Latin. Nobody speaks Latin any more. But, living an ever-decreasing few hours South of us, are millions of people who do speak Spanish, whose economic, cultural and political destiny is increasingly integrated with ours.

The Argentines and the other peoples of South America have a much clearer conception of their hemispheric obligations than does the average North American. Moreover, they have a tremendous incentive—and aid—to learn English in the movies. Main feature dialogue of most films Hollywood sends here is in the original English, with Spanish sub-titles dubbed in. You do not have to understand English to enjoy a Jane Russell epic but she and the other celluloidolls are most effective teachers.

Of course, the movies aren't the only medium spreading the knowledge of English locally. There are literally hundreds of private schools. They advertise on the radio, in the papers and with great paper posters like the circus. Most of them are run by Englishmen, although well-educated refugees from Central Europe are also reaping a share of the harvest.

One of the funniest sidelights I've come across was told me by an American family whose maid is taking lessons from one "Professor Kelly." She is learning English all right . . . but with as beautiful an Irish brogue as you'll ever hear, begorrah!

Clay for Governor

Editor Constitution: Paying due tribute to a distinguished Georgian—hero of the Berlin blockade and genius of the incredible airlift that foiled the dastardly attempt of the scheming Russians to drive the Western Powers from Germany—Ralph McGill, with rare perspicacity, in last Thursday's Constitution launches a boom for Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who, if he—like Cincinnatus of old—can be prevailed upon to come to the rescue of his beloved but bedraggled State, will make Georgia the ablest and most outstanding Governor the State has had in half a century and, at the same time, lift our government from the mire of pernicious political factionalism.

While the fighting general—after his strenuous activities abroad—would doubtless prefer to dwell for a season under his vine and fig tree unruffled by the "storms of state," it is hoped that he will suffer his name to be entered in a campaign in which it is believed that disgusted members of both warring factions—sick unto death of the nauseous struggle that goes on incessantly from year to year—would unite in restoring peace to a long-suffering State.

Elberton. W. D. TUTT.

The Other Side

Editor Constitution: A letter by two Athens women in Pulse of the Public, May 10, tells of the inability of a neighbor to get a doctor for her sick baby, stating "this is but one example of the emergencies we face without ever knowing if a doctor is available."

This letter is a typical instance of recent publicity directed against doctors as a whole because of the inability of one patient to reach his doctor on one particular day. If the implications contained in the letter are true, a remedy should be sought. If they are based on exaggerations or half-truths, the public should be so informed, out of fairness to the physicians concerned.

It was decided to investigate the circumstances that led to the letter, which reads: "Our neighbor's child was sick with fever early this morning and she and her husband tried desperately to reach a doctor—without success." On the morning in question, there were over twenty doctors in their offices or available at one of the two hospitals. Yet, the mother (who, incidentally, did not write the letter of criticism) states herself that she tried to reach only ONE doctor that morning. (The physician was out of town attending a pediatrics society meeting in Atlanta.) That afternoon, she states, she tried unsuccessfully to reach two other doctors, but made no attempt to call another pediatrician she knew, or any of the remaining 20-odd practitioners in town. Although it was Thursday afternoon and many of them were out of their offices, they would have been available if an attempt had been made to reach them. Others were in their offices all day, and still others had secretaries at their desks who would have reached them at once in event of an emergency. The situation at worst was considerably better than on Sundays when the patient does not expect to find his doctor in his office, yet does not expect to be left to die just because it is Sunday.

The letter continues, "By 5 o'clock p. m., the child, a one-year-old, suffered from a convulsion (they had first called a doctor at 7 a. m.)—still no doctor could be reached—by 5:30 the little girl had still another convulsion—and still no doctor. They rushed her to the hospital and were fortunate to find the house doctor on the premises, where she was finally treated."

The mother states, however, and the records prove, that the baby was seen and treated by a private physician, not a house doctor, almost immediately after having reached the hospital, and was dismissed completely recovered after a short stay in the hospital.

Pet Problem

Editor Constitution: Every few days I receive letters from my two little granddaughters with this plea, "Grandma, can't you please do something." They live in a housing project in Brunswick with their widowed mother and have been asked, along with all other pet owners in the projects, to sign a paper agreeing to dispose of their pets by June 1, or face eviction.

It is true that there is a clause in the tenants' lease with the Housing Authority forbidding them from bringing pets into the projects. But the housing manager admits in the notice that they have never enforced that clause. As I see it, they are to blame as much as the tenants.

The children's pets have become so necessary to their happiness and are now almost like members of their families. What are a few bushes and holes, compared to brokenhearted children? It is cruel and inhuman. When the Government built the housing projects they advocated homes for children where they could have pets and live happy lives.

Can you please do something about this heart-renting situation, through the SPCA or through the influence of your newspaper? Can you just imagine the great joy you would cause for so many little folks, and adults, too, for they love their pets so much too. This just can't happen to children.

Atlanta. MRS. L. H. ACKERMAN.

Co-operative Ownership

Editor Constitution: If, since 1933, the "New Deal" had influenced corporate wage increases, payable not only in cash, but also in common stock share ownership, by now American workmen (clerical and manual) would be deep investors in the problems of management. The wage motive would be modified by the profit motive.

Under such employee ownership, elected directors, representing labor, would know first hand the problems of capitalism, with its taxation, its competition, its Government intervention, and expensive "red tape."

The Root of All Our Problems?

WASHINGTON—If less than 10 years ago you had picked up your newspaper and read a front-page story about how Congress was in a ferment because an ounce of something called uranium oxide, rich in something called U-235, was missing from a laboratory, you would have thought someone was trying to spoof you. And you would have pinched yourself if in another column you had seen a story about a young college student being hailed before a Senate committee which was shocked because he was working on a Government fellowship in something called "nuclear" science when he believed in Communism. Especially since you could see from his photograph that he was the serious sort of young man once called a "grind" or a "dig" who would, of course, be interested in some odd edge of science, and probably would have strange political views and would carry big books under his arm as he plodded his lonely way about the campus. Yet, because of what he knew, a dangerous fellow, withal, so the story would say.

And, in another column, a story about a young woman being tried on charges that she sneaked some papers about some "atomic" business from her office in the Justice Department, where she worked, and took them to New York and there met a Russian on a street corner.

Altogether, a front-page offering that would convince you that you were still dreaming about that adventure or mystery story you were reading when you fell asleep last night. Yet those are the factual stories in your newspaper today, and you take them in your stride. A few years ago you would have said, with such a demonstration, that it was a cockeyed world.

And it is a cockeyed world today.

The imp on a pin point—which is a permissible figure of speech, since a pin point of uranium oxide was all we had to start with seven years ago to make those bombs which later wiped two Japanese cities off the map—the imp on a pin point, the atom about which dreary chemistry professors used to talk, has in the space of a few years changed more things than we know.

It has its grip on the minds of men, and has reopened to our confusion questions that we thought were settled a long time ago here in our country—freedom of inquiry, of opinion, of thought and of research. We are threatened, because of that pin point imp, with a new dark age of fear and suspicion and superstition.

All because of something so small you can't see it with your naked eye. We are literally afraid of something we can't see and which only a few understand, and though we lock it away behind closed doors, and surround it with mystery, it is the single most disturbing fact in the whole world today.

The essences of democracy are freedom of the mind and spirit and the worth and dignity of the individual human being. It is a glorious conception. Formerly we fought ideas with ideas, our idea against the idea of totalitarianism of either the right or the left. But now we have a secret of destruction, though it isn't really a secret and can't be a secret for long.

Consequently, a scientist in the atomic field may use his mind for that, but it is dangerous for him to rove freely in the field of abstract ideas about forms of government, for there may be a rare one who may become enamored of Communism, as some few have, and he may become so enamored that he is willing to impart what he knows to a foreign nation, as has happened. So we begin to close compartments of the mind and limit freedoms, though we can never really control the mind. But once we begin to restrict freedom, no man can tell where it may end. Germany and Russia are examples at hand.

Though no one can know for sure, it is possible that the attitudes in the world today that cause most of the trouble are due to the atom and its by-product, the atom bomb. Russia doesn't have it and is trying to get it. We have it and are trying to protect it. While we have been blocked by Russia in trying to internationalize it, with proper controls, it is probable that until something is done there, nothing else will be finally settled, and that, it seems, is really the world's No. 1 problem today.

How it all upsets us is told in the news stories cited.

No solutions are offered here, but it is suggested that as we make compromises with our freedoms we proceed most cautiously, so that in our fear we do not destroy other things that we hold dear and which, in the first place, made it possible for our scientists to do what they have.

Too Many Servants

According to the Census Bureau, as of January this year, Federal, State and local Governments employed 6,083,000 persons, with an aggregate public payroll for the month of $1,340,000,000. The Northwestern National Life Insurance Company calculates that Government salaries cost the average family $400 a year.

The disturbing phase of this trend is that the number of public employees is on the increase. After a decline, with the passing of the war emergency, the number of Federal civilian employees now increases at the rate of 100,000 a year. It was thought that centralized Government in Washington might reduce the need for so many State and local public employees, but they increase at the rate of 200,000 a year. The number of Government employees already equals the number of workers employed in the States of Massachusetts, Indiana and Texas combined.

It is easy to foresee that as long as these millions of employees have the power to vote they may cease to be our servants to become our masters. Apparently, nothing can be done about it other than a revolt of the taxpayers. The system will continue to grow until the tax-ridden people cut off its water.

MARTIN S. HAYDEN

Vandenberg Is Disillusioned

WASHINGTON—Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, who two years ago quit the presiding officer's chair to urge Senate confirmation of David E. Lilienthal as Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, doubts now whether he would vote to keep the AEC boss in his job.

Basis of the Michigan Senator's objection is doubt whether Lilienthal is doing the best possible job in safeguarding the secrecy of the atomic weapon.

"I wouldn't say I am off him yet," Vandenberg said, "but my confidence is considerably shaken. If his name were now before the Senate for reconfirmation, I would have considerable doubt about being for him."

Vandenberg's statement came after a week which saw the atomic energy boss in double Congressional trouble.

On the one hand, he has been under fire over commission grants of tax-supported research fellowships to known Communists and, on the other, he has been trying to explain how a container of presumably closely guarded uranium oxide could have been "mislaid" at the commission's University of Chicago laboratory.

ALTHOUGH Vandenberg refused to discuss it, it was learned here that the loudest explosion, until last week, between Lilienthal's commission and the "watchdog" committee came over the delicate question of Anglo-Canadian sharing of atomic war secrets.

Congressional policy, as originally drafted by Senators Hickenlooper of Iowa and McMahon of Connecticut, the two chairmen, to date, of the joint committee, provided for a continued sharing with Canada and Britain of highly secret information on general atomic science. It provided also, however, for a sharp demarcation line under which weapon-production secrets would be shared with no other country.

Some months ago, it is now learned, an AEC directive was actually dispatched to one of its representatives abroad directing him to turn over to another government information which, then and to this date, is highly classified in Washington. When Congressional and National military establishment officials heard of the order there was an immediate and bitter protest and a radio message was sent directing the AEC man to destroy his previous instructions and reveal nothing.

Vandenberg based his criticism on the developments of the past week. He pointed out that "for many months" Senator Hickenlooper has been trying to get the commission to establish a stock accounting system which would make it impossible to lose track of even the most minute portion of the pure uranium which is the heart of the atomic-bomb secret. The step was not taken and last week it came out that the commission had "lost" at the Argonne Laboratory in Chicago an amount of the precious material many times greater than that which figured in the sensational Canadian case when Dr. Allan N. May, the scientist-spy, stole a milligram of it and shipped it to Russia by special plane.

THE MISSING uranium story also exemplified Vandenberg's charge that the commission uses its unusual powers to "hide" its bad publicity. He pointed to Senator McMahon's formal announcement that, although the uranium was "lost" last February 8, and the FBI notified February 28, it was not until April 27 that McMahon, as Chairman of the watchdog committee, was notified of what for a time looked like a possible successful spy theft.

"Most disturbing to me," Vandenberg said, "is Mr. Lilienthal's contention that safeguards to keep Communists from getting AEC research fellowships might serve as precedents for Washington intrusion in general education. I fear Federal interference with our schools as much as Mr. Lilienthal does but, in my opinion, no real friend of academic freedom would make that question an issue in this fight.

"The whole history of the atomic-energy program shows that it is, by necessity, a separate and thoroughly undemocratic compartment in our democratic system. What happens there is not a precedent for anything. The people, I am convinced, want the atomic program kept a complete secret. Anyone trying to tell them that academic freedom requires letting a Communist share in any way in the AEC program will, in my opinion, do a great disservice to the cause of free education.

"The defense that the Communist students in question were not to be allowed access to secret information seems to me immaterial. The policy followed by Mr. Lilienthal, until Congress objected, put admitted subversives at least on the fringe of our greatest National secret."

They Need a Substitute for Poison

WASHINGTON—The Agricultural Department, which has been worrying ever since 1907 about the possibility of running horseless carriages on corncobs, now has a new system to make 'em purr on the lowest grades of gasoline.

When the engine begins to heat and go bong on the hills, just squirt a little alcohol into the carburetor. This makes the cheap gas perform like the premium stuff and also uses up some alcohol, of which we have too much.

And that's what Dr. G. E. Hilbert, Chief of the Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry, and his scientific cohorts were thinking about all along! How to turn surplus corn into alcohol (which is easy) and then sell the alcohol (which isn't).

So they have cooked up a widget that fits on the carburetor and injects a jolt of alcohol automatically whenever the engine begins to labor. This saves money, uses up surplus alcohol, makes the engine last longer, and gives the motorist a pleasanter ride. Sounds like the ideal situation.

The boys got to worrying what would happen when every filling station in the country had in stock a few kegs of pure grain alcohol to put into engines. What if some of it, accidentally, of course, flowed down human gullets? Simple, said a scientist who shall go unnamed. Just mix in a little poison, as in denatured alcohol, to give motorists who drank it instead of burned it a severe stomach-ache. So be it.

It turned out that automobile engines are as delicate as human stomachs. Burn denatured alcohol in same, and it pits the cylinders, gums up the piston rings, and soon sends the engine to the junk heap. So the boys now are trying to find a substance which, when mixed with alcohol, will poison humans, but not engines.

In the meantime, they are driving their experimental cars with pure ethyl alcohol, of the same quality that goes into cocktails. It works fine, too. Raises the octane rating of poor gas, if you want to get technical about it, from 58 to at least 74.

The Government's original experiments, which have been continuing ever since horseless carriages came equipped with sockets for buggy whips, called for the mixing of the alcohol directly with the gasoline.

That didn't work so well because the motors were low-pressure babies, which clanked under the best of circumstances. All the alcohol did was lower the gas mileage and raise in vain the hopes of farmers for better markets for their corn.

High-compression engines of today, however, must have fuel with high antiknock qualities, and alcohol seems to have that in full measure. Dr. Hilbert and company have hopes that alcohol jets soon will be standard equipment on automobiles. That is, if they can figure some way to keep motorists from sticking straws in their tanks and sipping.

Union Violence and Spineless Police

I have letters from two policemen who have served in violent CIO insurrections against the authority of elected government, and some other data which bears on the riotous past and riotous future plans of unions. Unlike the Ku Klux Klan, which was the punching dummy of the Truman Civil Rights fake which has wasted so much time of the Democratic Eighty-first Congress, the criminal unions are actually proteges of the national Administration. They intimidate many State and city governments.

It would be conservative to say that the victims of union goons, killed and injured, have outnumbered victims of the modern and now defunct Klan 100 to 1. Yet Truman and the alien-minded instigators who put the so-called civil rights program into his platform have demanded the full restoration of the grotesque Wagner Act, which conferred on unions a privilege to defy the power of Government while they howled against rare lynchings in Southern States.

All those who have been killed or injured by organized goons have been innocent persons. Invariably, victims of Southern lynchings have been suspected of repulsive crimes. Not always have the local authorities connived at Southern lynchings, although it would be insincere to claim that they always did their best to prevent them. But there is a vital point in the fact that the Truman party wanted a Federal law to punish Southern communities, but specifically exempted Northern cities whose public officers feared or refused to protect life and property against union goons.

Howard W. Hoyt, the Chief of Police of Kalamazoo, writes to complain against "inferences of cowardice on the part of any of the half-dozen officers who found themselves confronted with a mob of from 200 to 400 well-organized, determined and armed goons" during riots at a plant struck by the CIO last Winter. The union concerned here was the United Steel Workers, the home union of President Philip Murray.

The details of the vandalism and personal assaults on law-abiding citizens who tried to go to their jobs and of the conduct of the cops in the presence of the goons have already been presented here.

Chief Hoyt's policemen stood by, permitting all this, and even were afraid to prevent the criminals from burning a truck in their presence. An official report to Congress by Rep. Clare E. Hoffman, of the Fourth Michigan District, who conducted hearings in Kalamazoo, said four of these policemen, all armed and all sworn to enforce the law, flinched and did nothing.

Chief Hoyt writes that a grand jury soon voted indictments against 11 of the top local, area and international union leaders of the United Steel Workers.

"There seems to be little doubt but what convictions will be had on most counts which can bring sentences of from five to 55 years each. Is this not closer to the American way of getting justice done than, as you recommend, 'Shoot to kill'?"

Mr. Hoyt then reminds me that in Michigan human life is held so precious that capital punishment has repeatedly been rejected.

"You will find," he adds, "that police officers usually reflect in their actions the dispositions of the communities they serve. Kalamazoo is a peaceful, law-abiding community."

Here, then, is a cop with abundant authority in law to use sufficient force to put down violence, trying to excuse the flagrant failure of his department on the ground that the people of Kalamazoo, somehow, had expressed a preference for anarchy by armed strangers imported from the outside for the specific purpose of terrorizing their town and their local government. On the same theory, a cop would refrain from intruding on a criminal caught in the act of rape, murder or highway robbery. He would let him get away with it and then tell it to a grand jury. His attitude is reminiscent of that of the English civilian who caught his wife in infidelity with a bluejacket.

"Fed up, I am," he said. "I shall report him to his Commanding Officer."

My other letter comes from Capt. James L. Mooney, retired, of the Chicago Police Department, who commanded the detail at the Communist revolution at the Inland Steel Company's plant in South Chicago. The tawdry professional unioneers and all Communists have referred to this valiant stand of a thin line of uniformed cops as the "Memorial Day Massacre." But it was there that Government came to a stand against howling anarchy in Chicago and established a precedent that has been respected ever since.

"It is heartening," Capt. Mooney writes, "to read your attacks on Communism and to know that you reach so many Americans who might otherwise remain ignorant of the Red menace. The incident of Memorial Day, 1937, shows where I stand. Everything you said is the absolute truth. My men and I did our best that day to prove that there is no place in our country for individuals who are trying to overthrow our American Government."

Not one of the goons killed that day ever had worked in the plant. There was no strike. It was a Communist revolution.

Now we find in the Congressional Record a picture of Capt. Caesar Scavarda, of the Michigan State Police, warning the President of a struck plant under siege by violent pickets not to "start anything." We find another picture of the same brave trooper escorting a slight young woman, torn and dishevled, through a mob of goons and the note that he made no arrests "although assault and battery occurred in his presence."

And, summing up the testimony as to law enforcement in still another insurrection by the CIO at Jackson, Mich., Mr. Hoffman writes, "The hearings show that Harry W. Bailes, the Chief of Police, was chased down the street half a block by the pickets. He evidently preferred to run rather than make any attempt to exert his authority. The Chief is a big man, over six feet and over 200 pounds in weight."

Talmadge To Hear Gainesville Rent Case

Gov. Talmadge set tomorrow morning for a hearing on lifting of rent control in Gainesville.

Gainesville's City Commission has approved removal of rent restrictions in a move that might make Gainesville the first city in Georgia to do so. The proposal has drawn a protest to Talmadge, however.

One Collegiate Goose on Loose, Successor Flown From Florida

PHILADELPHIA— (AP) —Genevieve, the goose, is on the loose and her successor is in the doghouse.

Genevieve I was a plump young bird purchased from a farmer to play the role of the goose that laid the golden egg at the Woman's Medical College '49 Gold Rush fete this week.

But Genevieve, obviously a vagabond at heart, vamoosed from the car in which Mrs. George Gordon Meade and Mrs. Sol Weinberg were bringing her to town.

Harry F. McGlinn, a Philadelphian now in Miami, read about Genevieve and forthright made for Hialeah race track to take a gander at a goose he saw the day before.

There he found Genevieve II waddling about in company with a party of flamingoes.

Associated Press Wirephoto

Goose Arrives in Philadelphia To Lay Golden Egg

McGlinn bought Genevieve II a plane ticket and saw that she was dispatched to Philadelphia on an Eastern Airplanes plane.

Mrs. Meade and Mrs. Weinberg met the plane and, now wary of Geesely Wiles, promptly whisked her away to the Woman's Medical College.

But the Medical College has no quarters for a goose. So officials escorted the honking Genevieve II to the doghouse and placed her in a commodious cage.

There she wandered back and forth, perhaps dreaming of her lost life among the flamingoes.

It wasn't long before Mrs. M. F. Daskam of the college went with a student doctor to fetch the Florida bird.

But Genevieve was in an unfriendly mood. She bit the student doctor.

Mrs. Daskam, using dulcet tones, coaxed the gloomy goose toward the door, reached out gently, grabbed her and took her off to meet the press.

Genevieve is now sulking in her cage, unaware that tomorrow she will be promenaded and paraded as the goose that laid the golden egg. The show is part of a fund-raising program of the Medical College.

Mrs. Daskam, who doesn't want to have to play "whither do you wander" all over again, is taking no chances about the egg laying ceremony. She has three other geese in reserve in case Genevieve II decides to become a second gone goose.

Defense Rests As Rutledge Denies Charges

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa—(UP) Dr. Robert C. Rutledge's defense rested yesterday after he firmly denied State charges that he threatened Byron C. Hattman, the man he allegedly killed to avenge his wife's seduction, or sought to collect abortion money from him.

It was believed the dramatic murder trial would reach the jury of nine men and three women today or Wednesday after closing arguments of opposing attorneys.

Rutledge, winding up 10½ hours and over three days on the witness stand, denied under cross-examination that he had threatened to "wreck" Hattman's life in reprisal for Hattman's seduction of his blonde wife, Sydney, 23.

LET'S SEE NOW

Mother Wins Badge of Honor

By DORIS LOCKERMAN
Constitution Associate Editor

Mrs. L. L. Frierson, of Augusta, watched her slender, gangling twins of 19, Loy and Roy, bow their crew-cut heads for a prayer of lifetime dedication yesterday with a contained smile of satisfaction.

She heard them promise to bear witness to the whole world, to strive to lead mankind to its only Savior, and for Christ's sake, to care for the poor, feed the hungry, clothe the naked, love the unlovable, and befriend those who have no friends.

If she thought, as did the others witnessing the moving ceremony, that they were young and boyish to take on such serious pledges, she did not embarrass them by expressing it.

"I am grateful," she said, "for everything."

Mrs. Frierson had just become the second mother in the entire South to have given six officers to the Salvation Army. The twins had made it an even half dozen.

First there were Curtis and Emory, enlisting as boy soldiers in 1932, both now captains, one assigned at Greenville, S. C., the other Jacksonville, and looking enough alike to be twins themselves.

Then the two girls enlisted, and now Lt. Helen Frierson is assigned to Miami, and her younger sister, Lt. Hazel, is attached to the Orlando encampment. You can hardly tell them apart with their blue uniforms, their dark hair curling under the brims of the hats shading their sweet faces.

And now yesterday, the babies, the twin, became probationary lieutenants, as yet unassigned and almost sure to be separated for the first time in their memory.

"It's wonderful. Thank you," said Mrs. Frierson, when Mrs. Cmdr. Albert Chesham presented her with a special medal in the name of Gen. Albert Orsborn, adding it to the Silver Star she has worn since the girls went into the Army. "I have been blessed."

The children's daddy, a work-worn, quiet man, sat by, tensely alert to the flowers, the music, the rustle of spectators. He and his wife had driven over for the occasion and he had watched the home-coming and heard the joking talk of his humorous brood with the detachment of a father whose privilege it is to enjoy his family in affectionate withdrawal.

He shook his head in shy pleasure.

"At least I'll never wonder where they are on New Year's Eve," he remarked finally in a slow drawl. "I know they'll be somewhere on their knees."

A neighbor from Augusta peered over the banister at the family together.

"They're mine, too," claimed Mrs. C. C. Washington, of Augusta. "I was the one who got the first one into the Salvation Army. I claim them after their own parents."

The young officers looked pleased and assured.

Mrs. Frierson peeked down at her badge, pinned on her bosom beside the Silver Star she wears for her fourth child in the service of Christianity.

"I'll always be dressed up when I wear these," she said. "And happy, too."

New Shopping Center Opens

Your feet are like molten lead. Small demons, equipped with quarter-yard hat pins are using your back for target practice. Your eyes burn and your head aches. That new coiffure is now a mass of unrelated tendrils, your lipstick is smeared, your hose is shiny and your stomach gives every indication of having a death struggle with your digestive system.

Say "Ah" and stick out your shopping list.

Just as we thought. You're suffering from an attack of post-shopping nerves.

Actually, however, there isn't a thing wrong with you that Davison's new Fashion Center can't cure, given a few hours of your valuable time.

By MAYNITA GERRY
Constitution Fashion Editor

In this department, which opened yesterday, on the second floor of their new division, you will find nine different departments in one, all within quick commuting distance of each other.

If you've ever wondered what it would be like to stand in one given area and check off each item on your shopping list, here is your opportunity to find out. Only a few natural birch clothes cases removed from, say, a soft gray voilé dress which happens to be exactly your size 12, you will spot that large natural straw hat you've had on your mind, with a circlet of bright red poppies spilling over the brim.

The floor plan for this department runs something like this: Straight in front of the escalator, which rises from the Budget Mezzanine, is the hat department, literally laden with the latest in Summer headgear, displayed for quick perusal on such intriguing objects as wrought-iron trees, flanking square columns, as well as in display niches, softly lighted, across the back of the department.

Turning sharply to the left, in careful seclusion is the Maternity Shop, with delicately tinted wall and soft gray carpeting, dealing in everything for the expectant mother from lingerie to street and evening clothes.

Continuing down this aisle, you will find women's and misses' dresses, women's and misses' coats and suits, with special attention devoted to the little woman of five-feet-five and under. Further on is the bridal department, with its own special fitting rooms, large comfortable waiting room, one whole side of which is curtained in pale blue gray silk draperies. Here, too, are bridesmaids' dresses, as well as a whole counter devoted to gift suggestions from the bride to her attendants. Appropriately enough, these are displayed on white satin pillows.

Next door to the bridal salon is the Georgian Room with a whole nest (about eight) tucked away to one side, and like all the dressing rooms throughout the whole department, are lighted with daylight, so that you can be sure of matching or blending color tones.

Minks, moleskins and muskrats (or what have you?) are carefully stashed away in the fur salon, against polished walnut paneling and deep green walls.

THE LAND OF MAKE-BELIEVE

Rose and Bumble Bee Ballet Features Nursery Children

By YOLANDE GWIN

The Land of Make-Believe where fairies dance, the Rose reigns as Queen of the Flower Garden with the Wasp and the Bumblebee vying for her affection, and where Butterflies' kisses are gentle as a caress, will become a reality to a group of little people this afternoon.

At the Osgood Sanders Nursery on Baker Street, some 80 little children will dance in a Make-Believe Garden as Clouds, Raindrops, Sunbeams, the Sun, Johnny-Jump-Ups, Butterflies, Roses and Birds, in their May Day presentation of the Rose and the Bumblebee Ballet.

The dance routine, directed by Mrs. Marion Hutchison, has found a responsive chord in the minds of these youngsters who range in age from 2 to 12 years. Playtime at the Nursery has slipped to second place interest, since dance instruction began several months ago. Six weeks of ballet technique was taught the children before the actual dance routine began. Yesterday the dress rehearsal went off without a mishap or a misstep in preparation for this afternoon's performance. (It's to be at 6 p. m.)

Learning the ballet numbers is closely allied to the cultural aptitude previously expressed by these young children, who come from homes where there is a more practical side of life. According to Miss Frances Mason, Executive Director of the Sheltering Arms Association, even the youngest children like music and have often evidenced their preference for Shubert's Serenade, over Boogie Woogie and hillbilly numbers.

This afternoon's Ballet, timed for working mothers to be present will find tousle-headed little boys and curly-headed little girls, wide eyed with happiness and glowing as only youngsters can glow as a new adventure opens for them.

Last-minute preparation for the ballet assumed an air of magic—for there were many squeals of delight and much giggling as children slipped out of rompers, playtime dresses, shorts, and T shirts, to emerge looking like Butterflies, Roses, Lilies, Clouds, Sunbeams, etc.

They will look the part of the Make-Believe Garden characters, too. Mrs. Lois Hancock and Mrs. Alice Steuart, in charge of the costumes, have seen to that. Research over a period of several months has resulted in authentic costume replicas of the flowers. With the exception of the Raindrops, which are of plastic, and the Bumblebee and the Wasp, which are cloth, all the costumes are of crepe paper.

Mrs. W. H. Glenn and her daughter, Mrs. Jack Glenn, are spending 10 days at the Plaza, in New York.

Douglas Leigh will return to New York today after a visit to his mother, Mrs. Frank Leigh.

Mrs. Edward Davis Tupper is convalescing at the home of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Smith, following an appendectomy.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Mr. and Mrs. Dilts To Leave For Residence in New York

June 15 will mark the departure of those popular Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Dilts, and their son, Jerry, for residence in New York, much to the regret of a wide circle of friends here.

Vanity Fair Mill, of which Mr. Dilts is Vice President in charge of sales, is responsible for his transfer, of course. As soon as school is out on June 4, Mrs. Dilts and Jerry will go to New York to search for a place to live, either in Westchester County or in Connecticut. Then they will take a brief vacation jaunt into Canada before rushing home to get their household effects packed for moving. The Dilts home on Sussex Road, a charming replica of Mt. Vernon, has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Macey Glenn.

Mrs. Dilts will be especially missed in garden club and PTA circles, in which she has been an inspired leader. She has twice served as President of the Lenox Park Garden Club, the members of which presented her a handsome silver shell as a farewell gift at their last meeting. She is Vice President of the Tulip Association, and she organized the Woodland Garden Club, a thriving Lenox Park organization. She also belongs to Circle No. 1, Atlanta Child's Home.

The formal rose garden at the Morningside School, which she established during her term as house and grounds chairman for the PTA, is a living memorial to her efforts. When she leaves for New York she will relinquish the chairmanship of a similar committee at Grady High School.

The Dilts family will not sever its ties with Atlanta entirely, because they will leave their elder son, Billy, and his wife, the former Jean Minty, of Belize, British Honduras, here while the former finishes his course at Emory.

The Drymans Are Coming

Atlanta friends of those former Atlantans, Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Dryman, have only to wait a few weeks longer before they will have the pleasure of seeing the popular couple at home again.

The Drymans, who were married last September and moved away to Boston to live while Talmage attends the Harvard School of Business Administration, will start out by motor for Atlanta on June 5, bringing with them a very precious package—their new son, Tally.

They plan to visit Mrs. Dryman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spratlin, on Habersham Road, during the entire Summer, returning East in the Autumn for Talmage to complete his business courses.

Graduation and Marriage in One Week

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dixon will leave by motor today for Annapolis, Md., to attend the graduation of their son, John, from the U. S. Naval Academy on June 3. They will be accompanied, of course, by lovely Elizabeth Matthews, who will become John's bride on June 7 at a fashionable ceremony in Rome.

The Dixons have taken a house on Prince George Street in Annapolis for a week, and there they will entertain their son, his fiancee, and many of his friends from the Academy. They are particularly proud of John, for he ranks No. 31 in his class of 800, and is commander of his company.

Among the interesting wedding presents received by Elizabeth and John is a valuable old clock which was sent them by Elizabeth's cousin, Mrs. Virgil Koart, from Stuttgart, Germany. Fashioned of brass and inclosed in glass, it only has to be rewound every 400 days. Mrs. Koart is in Germany with her lieutenant husband, who is with the Army of Occupation.

The bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Matthews, of Rome, have given the couple a handsome Champlin silver service in the lily pattern, and Mr. and Mrs. Dixon have presented them a highly practical gift—a $1,000 bond.

AT AGNES SCOTT

Virgil Fox Wins Ovation In Concert

By HOWELL JONES
Constitution Music Editor

Virgil Fox, one of America's greatest concert organists, last night built a cathedral of sound for about 2,000 Atlantans who attended the final program of a three-part series of organ recitals presented by the Georgia Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. The recital was given at Presser Hall on the Agnes Scott College campus.

Fox, who is organist of the Riverside Church in New York City, long has been a favorite of Atlanta audiences. His performance last night did nothing to detract from his reputation here.

Giving his all in a brilliant climax to a series that included recitals by Marcel Dupre and Claire Coci, Fox won a large-scale ovation from his delighted listeners.

Following the regular program—a program that differed greatly from the one originally scheduled—Fox gave three encores. The large audience refused to leave its seats until the house lights were brought up. Even then it brought the noted organist back for a final curtain call.

Easily the outstanding American organist to appear in Atlanta this season, Fox played like a master. His complete mastery of the demands of color and mood, plus his brilliant movement through the various registrations, thrilled and inspired his audience and left tnem in a state of awe at his unusual artistry.

After opening the recital with a moving interpretation of Handel's "Concerto in F," Fox followed with two of the highlights of the night. He played the familiar and delicate "Air for G String," by Bach, and the same master's "Prelude and Fugue in E-Minor."

The artist varied the second part of the program, playing the Scherzo from Vierne's "Symphony in E-Minor," and Mendelssohn's "Sonata in F-Minor."

The Mendelssohn score was the high spot of the entire concert. Excellently performed throughout, Fox's interpretation brought applause from the audience even before he had completed the final part of the thrilling last movement.

The final portion of the program included "Roulade," by Seth Bingham and Tocatta, "Thou Art the Rock," by Mulet.

Fox played Bach's "Come Sweet Death" in answer to a number of requests.

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

CANNES — (INS) — Wedding guests arriving at the L'Horizon Chateau in Cannes for the marriage of Rita Hayworth and Prince Aly will have a private screening of the bride-to-be's latest picture, "Loves of Carmen."

The Guy in a Box Belonged in a Cage

The other night when the umpires called that play at Ponce de Leon Park without any of them ever seeing it, I am sitting in the box seats back of third base.

It isn't by choice that I'm not in the press box, where it is safe. But when I reached home that night for supper, she says are you going to the game and I says yes, and she says, good I have engaged the services of a sitter and I am going with you.

So that explains why I am sitting in the box seats, rather than where I belong when such things as the umpires missing one occur.

But as it turns out, I am glad because I learned a lot about the sport of baseball and I also hope that Mr. Leo Durocher really did hit that guy who was riding him if he was half as obnoxious as the one sitting back of me.

It is from a meek-looking citizen in front that I learn about the game and it is from the one in the rear that I learn how to ride players without the use of spurs.

Explains Plays The fellow in back doesn't have much to say in the early innings because he obviously is a Cracker fan and our brave lads apparently have the situation well in hand.

In one of those early innings, Lloyd Gearhart sort of bloops one into center field and the Little Rock outfielder is off with the crack of the bat, as they say, and makes what I figure to be a pretty nice catch.

But it turns out that it isn't a nice catch at all, because the fellow in front turns and says, "He hit it four feet too far," and I am glad that he did because I don't want to get any false impressions of the game.

I am grateful to him again a few minutes later when Gene Verble dashes to his left for a ball and makes a throw to second to just nip, as the sports writers say, the runner coming down.

I am just about to yell words of congratulations to Verble when the fellow turns again and says, "He would have got a double play if the ball had been two feet farther to the right," again emphasizing there are things about the game which I do not understand.

Leo Was Right It is about this time that the fellow in the rear really gets himself in action because the Little Rocks are rallying and the picture is dark indeed for our side.

Mr. Dick Hoover is our pitcher and, as I recall, he went into the game with a record of five straight victories. But this apparently does not impress the heckler who starts asking after every pitch certain uncomplimentary questions as "Why don't you go back to Albany?" and "Who ever said you could pitch, you bum?"

There were other unprintable expressions and I find myself more and more in agreement with Mr. Durocher, if any part of the recent allegations against him are true.

It is not long before Mr. Hoover leaves the game and is replaced by Jim Bagby. But the heckler takes up with Jim where he left off with Dick. I guess he figures what's good for the goose is good for the gander, as the sports writers also say.

I think that on Mr. Bagby's way to the dugout I detect him staring into the vicinity of his tormentor, a possible prelude to post-game action. But the heckler is discreet enough to maintain silence and I am not brave enough to stand up and say, "Here he is, Jim."

Sides With Umps The climax comes when the controversy arises between the umpires on one hand and Cliff Dapper on the other and, believe it or not, the jerk sides with the umpires.

He yells unkind things at Dapper and implores Red McCutcheon to toss him out of the park, something which does occur within a minute or two, but undoubtedly a decision Mr. McCutcheon made entirely by himself.

By this time, everybody sitting in section "J" is ready to personally take on the jerk in hand-to-hand encounter, but the game is over before anybody gets around to it.

And I sit there for a few minutes, just wondering why it is that certain citizens think that an admission ticket gives them the right to personally insult a kid just because he is a professional athlete.

And the only conclusion I can reach is that such people are morons and we should be glad that the majority of baseball players are gentlemen enough to ignore them.

JEFFCOAT OUT AT SECOND—Hal Jeffcoat, Chicago Cubs outfielder, takes a tumble after being forced at second when Outfielder Herman Reich rolled out to Boston Third Baseman Bob Elliott, who relayed the ball to Ed Stanky for the putout. # DiMaggio Works Out With Yankees; No Date Set for Return to Lineup

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, the New York Yankees' famous convalescent, came up with a handful of blisters last night after his first workout since he reinjured his painful right heel April 11.

But the date of the crack outfielder's return to the lineup remained as uncertain as ever.

The $90,000-plus slugger donned a Yankee baseball uniform for the first time in 41 days and engaged in a light batting and fielding workout before last night's arc-light game with the St. Louis Browns.

DiMag spent a half-hour in the batting cage and sent several well-tagged blows in the general direction of the leftfield bullpen. He also shagged flies in the outfield for 10 minutes, but was careful not to move too fast for any balls not hit directly at him.

Asked how he felt after the workout, Joe said:

"All right, I guess. But it wasn't a fair test. After all, you don't expect me to go all out the first day."

It was obvious, however, that Joe was very happy about being in uniform. He already has missed 30 games this season.

"It feels so good having this monkey suit on," he grinned, "I don't think I'll take it off tonight even when I go to bed."

Joe said he did not expect to take any hitting practice today since he developed a bunch of blisters on both hands. However, he hoped to shag some flies in his accustomed centerfield spot.

Joe appeared on the field early, well ahead of the rest of the Yankees. With Coach Frank Crosetti and Outfielder Hank Bauer acting as batting practice pitchers, DiMag hit for about 20 minutes without a letup. Later, he took his regular turn in the Yankees' batting session.

DiMaggio was wearing a spikeless shoe on his injured right foot. Inside was inserted a protective sponge made of foam rubber.

Manager Casey Stengel observed Joe's initial workout from a spot on the Yankee bench, but ventured no opinion.

"The workout just showed me that Joe is still a great hitter," he said. "As far as the foot is concerned, I know no more now than before. However, I'm leaving it all up to Joe. He knows just how much work he can stand.

"Yes, I may take him along on the road trip if Joe shows no after-effects. No, I don't think I'll use him for pinch hitting duties for a while."

FIVE AMERICANS WIN

Turnesa Leads Way In British Amateur

PORTMARNOCK — (AP) — Wee Willie Turnesa, the American champion, led five of his countrymen safely through the opening round of the British American golf championship yesterday over the windswept Portmarnock links by the Irish Sea.

The little ace of the short irons, who won the British Crown two Summers ago, lifted his game after being one down as far along as the 10th hole to eliminate Alan Turner, a young and stubborn Yorkshireman, 3 and 2.

Taking 38 strokes on the rugged outward nine—two over par—Turnesa turned all even and then went one down on the 10th, a 378-yarder, where he took a five. But he rammed down a 15-footer for a birdie three to win the 11th, and from there on remained in full command as his opponent slammed wildly into the rough and bunkers.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, the defending champion, drew a bye in the opening round and entertained himself by watching Turnesa do his stuff. Willie confessed he was worried for a time.

"I'm glad to get that one over with," said the scion of America's biggest golfing family. "Makes you concentrate better when you get a little behind."

The big American contingent in the championship failed, despite Turnesa's winning effort, quite to break even on yesterday's play. While five others, including the great veterans, Francis Ouimet of Boston, and Chick Evans, of Chicago, got safely past their first tests, seven were beaten by Irish and British opponents.

One of the defeated group, Sgt. Bill Ebey of the U. S. Air Force at Wiesbaden, Germany, was the unfortunate victim of an "incident" which caused a great deal of debate in the clubhouse afterward:

Ebey was beaten on the first extra hole by Harry Bennett, a young English player, the direct result of Bennett's having received credit for a win on the 14th hole instead of a half.

Ebey, who was 1 up at that point, walked up to the hole on the 14th, knocked his ball into the can and then knocked Bennett's ball off the green, intending to concede a half in fives. Both balls had been less than a foot from the cup.

But Bennett charged that the sergeant had broken a rule of the British golfing code by hitting his (Bennett's) ball, and so claimed the hole. But for that, Ebey would have won 1 up on the 18th.

HARMAN BRANDS SANITY CODE 'UNENFORCEABLE'

NEWARK, Del.—(AP)—"The NCAA sanity code is just another 'prohibition' law that cannot be enforced." Harvey Harman, Rutgers University football coach, said last night in an address at the University of Delaware.

Harman said it was his belief that each college should run its own athletics and if the rules are right their opponents will play by them.

"I'm in favor of letting college athletics be governed by rules formulated by the school president, board of trustees and athletic council," the former head of the National Football Coaches Association stated.

Clarkdale Rallies To Beat Marietta

Clarkdale came from behind to defeat Marietta, 10-6, in a City League game at Clarkdale last night as Lefty J. B. Williams let the invaders down with nine hits and J. D. Patterson slashed out three hits for the winners.

Oscar Wallace and Williams banged a double and single each for Clarkdale, and Clark lashed a triple and single for Marietta.

Lookouts Beat Lindquist As Crackers Field Poorly

By F. M. WILLIAMS
Constitution Sports Writer

ENGEL STADIUM, CHATTANOOGA—Two badly played infield grounders, one by Chet Hajduk and the other by Al Flair, plus an error by little Gene Verble, cost Carl Lindquist his bid for a fourth victory here last night and instead sent him down to his second loss, 4-3.

Although the balls that went through Hajduk and Flair were scored as hits, both should have been fielded. Each directly let in a run.

Verble's error came in the third inning and set the stage for a pair of Lookout tallies that weren't earned.

The Lookout victory, coupled with Birmingham's win over Nashville, dropped the Crackers into second place in the Southern Association race, with the Barons taking over the top spot.

A crowd of 2,661 watched Lindquist and Tony Lorenzo, tiny Cuban southpaw, engage in a mid-season hurling duel, with Lorenzo, who had to have help from Woodie Johnson in the ninth, coming out ahead.

It was a hectic game, with the Lookouts beefing time and again on umpiring decisions, and with either team in good position to win at several points.

Chattanooga started the scoring in the third. With one man out, Lorenzo hit a grounder to Verble, who first hesitated and then failed to take the ball on a short hop and it was an error. Junior Wooten beat out a bunt and Babe Ellis whiffed on three pitches.

Charlie Letchas dropped a lazy fly into short center field for a single, scoring Lorenzo, and then Jake Early slashed a liner to right to drive in Wooten.

The Crackers surged right back to tie things up in the fourth.

Flair singled to center and Lloyd Gearhart uncorked a 420-foot double that fell at the bottom of the fence in deep left center. Flair, who had to see if Wooten would catch the ball, could make it no farther than third.

Charlie Woddail hit a slow grounder to Angel Fleitas at third and Flair scored as Woddail was thrown out at first. Verble also hit a slow grounder to Fleitas and after Angel threw to first, Gearhart broke for home and made it ahead of Bob Reid's toss from first.

The Lookouts didn't like the decision and before things calmed down almost every member of the team had charged Umpire Red McCutcheon.

Neither team threatened again until Lindquist had two men out in the seventh. Then Lorenzo singled to right. Wooten hit a grounder that went directly through Hajduk's legs for a single to left. Ellis slashed a single to center and Lorenzo scored. Ellis hollered loud and long when he was called out trying to make it to second.

In the eighth Early got his second single after Letchas had flied to center. Tom McBride struck out, but Fleitas dropped another single to right. Reid's grounder got through Flair's legs and Early scored from second.

The Crackers gave the Lookouts a scare in the ninth but the rally fell a run short. Woddail opened the inning with a single but Verble flied to right. Manager Dapper slashed his fourth straight single to left, Woddail moving to second.

Jim Bagby batted for Lindquist and Bill Kennedy ran for Woddail. Bagby's grounder to Willie Miranda was bobbled for an error, loading the bases. Johnson replaced Lorenzo.

Ralph Brown, whose 17-game hitting streak was broken, flied to left and Kennedy came home after the catch.

After fouling off four pitches, Hajduk walked to load the sacks again, but Dave Williams, who had three hits previously, lined to Wooten in centerfield to end the game.

Norman Brown will pitch the final game of the series tonight for Atlanta. Bobo Newsom is the likely Lookout hurler.

SHORT NOTES—Manager Dapper shuffled his lineup to take full advantage of Lloyd Gearhart's sudden hitting streak. . . . He put Gearhart down to fifth and moved Hajduk to second. . . . Gearhart has been hitting often and long and Dapper wanted him down in the lineup to give him more chance to knock runners home. . . . Cuban Southpaw Tony Lorenzo used exactly 10 pitches to retire the Crackers in the first inning. . . . And Carl Lindquist became the first Cracker hurler to get Jake Early out when he got a third strike by the big catcher in the first.

Ellis dropped Hajduk's pop fly in right in the third but then threw the Cracker third sacker out by 10 feet at second. . . . Heads up play by Dave Williams saved him in the third. . . . Lorenzo caught him off first but Williams worked himself out of a chase by running right up to Bob Reid, stopping, and when Reid dropped the ball, Davey hastened back to first. . . . Then on the next pitch he had second stolen with plenty to spare, but Umpire Roy called him out. . . . Joe Engel almost had a fit, the decision was so lousy. . . . Roy wasn't even in position to make the decision, but that's common among umpires these days. . . . They don't intend to hustle, apparently.

Wooten made a great one-handed catch off Brown in the fifth inning to rob the Cracker ace of at least a triple. . . . Gearhart's double in the fourth inning hit 420 feet from home plate at the base of the left-centerfield fence. . . . It was a longer hit ball than his home run Sunday. . . . Only thing that kept the amazing Wooten from catching it was he couldn't get to the ball because of a slight incline near where it hit.

BRAVES WIN, TAKE LEAD

Red Sox Defeat Tigers, 4 to 0, Behind 5-Hit Pitching of Kinder

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

The reports of the "death" of the Boston Red Sox appear to have been greatly exaggerated, it was worth noting yesterday as they played brilliant ball again to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 4 to 0, behind Ellis Kinder's five-hit pitching.

The Red Sox, off to a listless start again this year, dropped nine of their first 15 games, but lately have righted themselves and yesterday's victory gave them a mark of seven wins in their last 11.

Kinder, pitching one of the best games of his career, nevertheless needed two great catches by centerfielder Dom DiMaggio to save his shutout. They came in succession in the first inning with two men on base. DiMaggio raced to deep center and made a one-handed leaping catch of Paul Campbell's liner against the wall. Then, before he had recovered his breath, Hoot Evers sent another smash to center and the little professor had to leap high and pull down the ball in his gloved hand.

Vern Stephens contributed the chief offensive support, a two-run homer, his 11th of the season. He is two up on Johnny Mize, of the Giants, who is second in the majors with nine.

Cleveland's Owner Bill Veeck flew into Philadelphia to see his world champions finally break into the win column as they pounded out 10 hits and thrashed the Philadelphia Athletics 7-3 last night. It was the Indians' first victory since last Thursday and only their second in 10 games since starting their Eastern swing.

Tommy Henrich's three-run homer, and Allie Reynolds' airtight relief pitching after relieving Starter Ed Lopat in the second inning helped the New York Yankees defeat the St. Louis Browns, 10-3, at Yankee Stadium.

At Washington, the Chicago White Sox scored twice with two out in the ninth inning to defeat the Senators, 3-1, behind three-hit pitching of Randy Gumpert.

The Boston Braves, who have been chugging at pennant pace since the start of the season, again took over undisputed possession of first place in the National League with a 11-4 victory over the last-place Cubs in Chicago. It was Boston's ninth win in its last 12 games and extended Chicago's losing streak to five games.

All of Boston's 12 hits figured in the run production, with Marvin Rickert contributing the big one, a three-run homer in the first inning. Vernon Bickford didn't have to bear down too hard to win his sixth game and gave up 10 hits, one a homer by Hank Edwards.

It was the only game in the National League.

McFarlane Is Injured

SANFORD, N. C.—(AP)—Former national golf champion Willie MacFarlane was seriously injured yesterday afternoon in a traffic accident near here.

Paul R. Cragan, administrator of Lee County Hospital here, said MacFarlane suffered a double fracture of the left elbow, a broken collarbone and shock. Physicians decided immediately to remove him to Duke Hospital at Durham for orthopaedic tre tment.

Deputy Sheriff Odie McBryde said a small trailer attached to a car of the State Wildlife Resources Commission broke loose and hit the northbound MacFarlane car, throwing it off the road.

MacFarlane's wife was with him. She was unhurt. The MacFarlanes were en route from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., to West Hampton, Long Island.

MacFarlane was national open champion in 1925.

Pafko was taken to a hospital where X-rays showed no fracture.

Veeck Discusses Slump With Manager Boudreau

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The fortunes of the Cleveland Indians have dipped so low that Owner Bill Veeck decided he'd better come East and see what has happened to his world champions.

The Indians have won only once since they left home for their Eastern swing. They've lost eight and have dropped far off the pace into seventh position.

The once-feared pitchers of the Cleveland club has faltered badly and the hitters haven't taken up the slack.

"I'm like everybody else in town," the usually genial Veeck admitted to reporters before taking off by air from Cleveland.

"I want to do something," he said, "but I haven't the slightest idea where or how to start."

Veeck was closeted with Manager Lou Boudreau for some time before last night's game with the Philadelphia Athletics, but declined to say what they talked about.

"I'm just here for a visit and will try to find out what is the matter with the team," he said. "Good ball clubs always rebound and this team is a good one. I still think it can repeat as the American League champion."

Boudreau wouldn't talk about the club's slump. He chucked off most inquiries, but insisted the slump is due to end—and soon.

Sunday the Indians did something they hadn't done in four years—they lost a double-header to the Philadelphia Athletics.

It wasn't so much that the A's won the games. It was more a case of the Indians kicking them away. For instance, in the first inning of the second game wone, 7-3, by the A's, Mike Garcia and Gene Bearden teamed up to present four runs to the Philadelphia team.

Garcia walked three men and promptly was yanked in favor of last year's rookie of the year. Bearden wild pitched home two runs and gave up another walk that loaded the bases for Elmer Valo to single home a pair on the only hit of the inning.

That is what has been happening all along the Eastern swing. The Indians have been kicking away games. Bob Feller and Bearden have been extremely ineffective. Bob Lemon is hampered by injuries and the club's relief pitching has been inadequate.

There may be some trades in the offing, but neither Veeck nor Boudreau would have any positive comment on that count.

Augusta Boy Named Captain of Citadel Team

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(AP)—Cadet Walker Inman, of Augusta, Ga., has been named captain of the 1950 Citadel golf team, it was announced yesterday at the military college.

IT'S OURS—THAT'S WHAT YOU THINK—That's about what was said as Bobby Gilbert, left, North Fulton first baseman, and Herbert O'Neal, Fulton third sacker, goodnaturedly haggled over which of the two schools will win the NGIC baseball championship trophy. In the background, left to right, Canton's brilliant Clyde (Ace) Little and Marvin Satterfield, both All-State selections last year; Russell's Harold Scogin, All-NGIC in football and baseball, and Marietta's John Tate, who won the State B 440-yard run three years in a row, look on in amusement. All attended the NGIC's annual fete for its sports All-Stars here last night.

NGIC FETES ALL-STARS

North Fulton in Quest Of 2 Diamond Crowns

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

North Fulton's athletes and coaches, already responsible for one of the most successful sports years in the history of the school, made up by far the most confused and uneasy group which attended last night's gala annual banquet given by the NGIC in honor of its All-Star performers in football, basketball, track and baseball at the YMCA here.

The Bulldogs compiled one of their better football records; they had been one of the States best in basketball; they had finished second to Lanier in the GIAA track meet and then captured top NGIC honors by tallying more points than Marietta's State B champions last week. What is there to worry Coaches Weddington Kelley, Ray Taylor, Weyman Tucker and their Buckhead boys? you ask. It's their baseball team.

It isn't that they aren't already proud of their diamond nine, but they are wondering how much stamina it is possible to have as the boys face the almost unprecedented task of trying to win two championships within the next few days.

The Bulldogs have won the first of a two-out-of-three-game series with Decatur for one of Region Four's spots in the State Class AA tournament. The second game was rained out yesterday. They will try again Thursday. If they lose that one they must meet Decatur again the next day for the spot.

Regardless of the outcome of that series, Ray Taylor's boys must beat both Fulton and West Fulton in their two remaining league games if they are to capture the NGIC title. If Fulton's Redbirds (9-4) trip the Bulldogs (8-4) the former will clinch the crown. If North Fulton wins that one but loses to West Fulton a three-way play-off between North Fulton, Fulton and Canton (8-5) almost inevitably will be necessary.

The Bulldogs may cop two baseball championships the year after they finished in the cellar, or they may not win any. If they do win one or two titles you can be sure they have stamina plus.

Fulton placed five players on Canton four, North Fulton and Decatur three each, West Fulton and Gainesville two apiece and Russell one on the 1949 All-NGIC team selected by the coaches.

There were no speeches at last night's fete for the boys, over which NGIC President Fred Presley, of Marietta, presided. Dwight Keith, Georgia Tech backfield coach, and Dwight Keith, Jr., were on hand to show the boys educational movies on football, basketball, baseball and track.

Prep Prattle

With undefeated Bass taking an off day until Friday, the City Leaguers will make up a previously rained out track meet today on the Piedmont Park Polo Field, starting at 2:30. The State Class C baseball title will be decided this afternoon in Macon where Ft. Gaines and Springfield will play in the final round.

The three City League baseball games slated for yesterday—Bass vs. Brown, O'Keefe vs. Grady and Murphy vs. Smith—were rained out and will be played later in the week, possibly Thursday.

MAN CAUGHT IMPERSONATING DAVE WILLIAMS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Dave Williams, the Atlanta Crackers second baseman, can offer another good example of how ball players are often victimized by unscrupulous people.

When the Crackers checked into the Patton Hotel here on their current trip, Williams and his roommate, Rusty Morgan, left their bags in their room and went out to eat. In the haste, they didn't notice their room number, and, upon returning, asked the room clerk for the rooming list to find the number. Added to the typewritten list in pencil was "Mr. and Mrs. Dave. Williams."

A house detective was sent to investigate, and after discussing general subjects with the imposter for awhile, called Dave and Rusty into the room. The phony told the two boys he was Dave Williams, then was shocked to learn that he was talking to the real object.

Needless to say, the couple was ejected.

SOUTHERN ROUNDUP

Barons Rip Vols, Take Loop Lead

Southpaw Jimmy Davis handcuffed the Nashville Vols on eight hits in Sulphur Dell last night to give the Birmingham Barons a 13-4 decision that put them on top of the Southern League standings ahead of the losing Atlanta Crackers. It was Davis' fifth win against one loss.

Fred Hatfield, Baron third baseman, rapped his 10th and 11th home runs of the year, and Norm Koner belted four safeties, one a double. The win gave the Barons a 2-1 edge in the series.

The Little Rock Travelers, playing at home, made it three straight over the Mobile Bears, with an 8-1 triumph. Righthander Art McConnell scattered seven hits, despite the fact he was touched for a homer, triple and double by Dee Fondy, the home run being the Bears' only tally. Hal Simpson, Peb outfielder, collected two round-trippers, a double and single in five times at bat.

The New Orleans Pelicans rapped three Memphis hurlers for 11 safe blows, to trounce the homeling Chicks, 10-4, behind Yochim, who allowed nine safeties.

Taking a Short Cut Through a Turkish Bath

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

It may be like taking a short cut through a Turkish bath; it will get us all steamed up and little else, but it seems like a good day to single out a few unsung heroes, a few rank newcomers to stardom and a few who performed well above expectations in the high school baseball season here since the end of it, like Mr. Herbert Hoover's prosperity of quite a few years back, is just around the corner.

This doesn't pertain to youngsters who have received considerable credit in the public prints for excellent jobs well done—fellows like Jackie Roberts, Sonny Conn, Clyde (Ace) Little, Marvin Satterfield, Courts Redford, Roy and Milton Martin in the NGIC and Eddie Webster, John Carson, Richard Bush, Bob Dendy, Buddy Young, Bill Darden, Billy Stewart, Ralph Smith and Ray Newsome in the City League. They were well established stars for their diamond didoes in the previous season.

Without any exhaustive survey we'd just like to give a little credit where a lot of credit is due in many cases. After all there must be at least 300 players performing in the NGIC and City League. Naturally not all the heroics of every game are given any thorough going over in the newspapers. It admittedly is impossible.

We'll Take Free, Sewell

For the most surprisingly effective ball players of the year we'll take Billy Sewell, North Fulton pitcher, and Marvin Free, Gainesville outfielder, in the NGIC and O'Keefe's Bobby McCauley and Walter (Bookie) Burns and Roosevelt's Richard Hays and Bob Dawkins in the City League.

Huge Brother Free paces the NGIC with a cool .458, and Sewell is rated by several coaches, including Canton's D. T. Smith, as being as good as any twirler in the loop with the possible exception of Gainesville's Jackie Roberts. No one ever heard of Sewell, batting .368, before this year.

McCauley, who hasn't made an error since being shifted to second base, sets the City League pace at .485. Hays has .412, Dawkins .410 and Burns a neat .407. None was an exceptional hitter last year. Dawkins, in addition, has proved to be a fine pitcher when needed. Except for poor eyesight he'd be one of the really great athletes of the current era.

North Fulton, coached by Ray Taylor, probably will go down as the team of the year. The Bulldogs finished dead last in 1948, their first year in the loop. They now are battling Fulton for the NGIC crown and Decatur for a berth in the State playoff finals. Swede Phillips' Bass team has been the City League's most surprising to date.

Rah Rah Thomason, of Murphy, at .400; Don Duvall, Murphy, 385, and Sam Berry, powerful armed Roosevelt outfielder, .375, head a list of other City Leaguers who have shown remarkable improvement. Jim Dillon, Bobby Keel and Doyle Pair, of Bass; Bud Ballew and Pepper Rodgers, of Brown, and Billy Cole, O'Keefe, also have been wielding unexpectedly heavy sticks.

Elvin Coleman (.381) and Alfred Holbrook (.357) have made North Fulton tough to get out. Ditto for Harry Goss (.347), for Fulton. E. W. Hughes (.343), of West Fulton, and Pete Caudle and Henry Allison, of Russell, have proven exceptionally dangerous, too.

Bobby Gilbert, of North Fulton, has been a fielding sensation at first base. Conrad Moon (.313), of Smith, Ed Floyd, Murphy, and Norman Campbell, Brown, are among the town's most improved performers.

Schubele, Edrington

The real newcomers who have shown most marked ability are Bruce Schubele, Murphy shortstop; Frank Edrington, Bass shortstop; Frank Marmon, Bass catcher; Ernest Poyo, Grady third baseman; Carl McGee, Brown hurler; Harvey Robertson, Murphy pitcher; Corbett Wood, W. Fulton flinger; Lefty Cogbill, Decatur moundsman; Charlie Pace and Jimmy Dodson, Russell flingers. Murphy's Buck Bradberry is the fellow we consider potentially the greatest pitching prospect. Bobby Willis, seldom-erring Bass' keystoner, is our idea of the city's most unsung all-round player.

Other real surprise packages include John Harper, Decatur pitcher; Herbert O'Neal, Fulton third baseman; Buck McCravy, West Fulton outfielder; Pete Scogin, West Fulton catcher; Harold Scogin, Russell catcher; Jimmy Davenport, North Fulton pitcher, and Marietta's hurling pair, Pat Edwards and Lefty Gilbert McCombs.

Those we consider among the brightest City League stars but with little fanfare include Charlie Brannon (.343) and Bobby Smith (.333), Brown shortstop and outfielder-pitcher; Keith Comer, Grady pitcher; Ray Guyton and Cecil Trainer, Brown infielders, and John Helms, Roosevelt outfielder-catcher.

In the NGIC a similar list includes Claude Young (.371), Decatur third baseman; Joe and Harold Sullivan, of Fulton; George Donaldson, North Fulton; Dan Mainer and Norman Stone, Decatur; Billy Driskell, West Fulton; Paul Hudgins and J. B. Johnson, Canton.

Like "them blind umpires" we missed a few, but you can enter a protest with the usual protest fee of five dollars.

BOTH TEAMS IN NCAA MEET

Kentucky, Miss. State Clash for SEC Crown

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—The Kentucky baseball team did an about-face yesterday and put itself back in the Third District NCAA tournament at Charlotte, N. C., next month.

The players told Coach Frank Moseley yesterday they had worked out plans among themselves to make it possible for all members to play in the tournament beginning June 9.

Athletic Director B. A. Shively had said earlier the team would be unable to accept the NCAA invitation because several players had other plans. The decision was based on an informal poll which indicated at least two regulars would not be available during the tournament, which begins after school is out.

Kentucky, winner of the Eastern Division of the Southeastern Conference, is scheduled to meet the Southern Conference titlists, Wake Forest.

Moseley said the school would inform the selection committee immediately of the acceptance.

Other teams in the Region Three tournament are Mississippi State, the Southeastern Conference Westerner winner, and Richmond, the Southern Conference runner-up. Winner of the Regional tournament will meet the winner of the Eastern District for the right to play in the National finals at Wichita, Kan.

The Wildcats, meantime, turned to preparations for business closer at hand. The Kentuckians meet Mississippi State at Starksville Friday and Saturday.

The tilts will be the first in the best three of five playoff series. The playoff will move to Lexington May 31 with the fourth and fifth games, if needed, carded here June 1-2.

Mississippi State won the title last year, trimming Auburn's Eastern champs in three straight games. This year's play-off will be the second since the league was divided into two sections.

Slum Survey Differentiated Racial Phases

Senior architectural students of Georgia Tech, who recently released a report on Atlanta slum conditions that caused much controversial discussion, yesterday issued a statement which "regretted misunderstanding."

They pointed out that their complete report was a voluminous document which differentiated between the Negro and white areas of the region studied. The white areas, they said, were reported as being in "far better shape."

Due to limited space, the students said, the complete report could not be printed, resulting in misunderstanding. The original digest of the report was carried in the Georgia Tech Engineer. The Constitution then followed with a digest of this report.

City Councilman John A. White, Chairman of the Council Slum Clearance Committee, announced yesterday the survey has no "official standing."

"At the request of many property owners in the area bounded by Argonne Avenue, Parkway Drive, Highland, Glen Iris and the Southern Belt Line, I have made an appraisal and find that a vast majority of the homes have been built since the 1917 big fire in Atlanta and comply with existing building codes. Most of the homes were built in 1926-29 and are not blighted structures, with the exception of a few old homes which escaped the fire.

"The largest portion of the other area surveyed by the students is a blighted section and should be rebuilt, but the area outlined should not have been included. Any person riding through that segment can see this for himself. I am making this statement for the property owners in the area under question."

The students made their study by census tracts. They were numbered 17, 18, 28 and 29. Tract 17 includes predominantly white areas, they say, including portions of the Fifth Ward.

The students point out that a slum area is defined as a district in which there are 75 percent or more houses which are unsafe, unhealthy or detrimental to good morals.

"We are fully aware of the hard struggle the white inhabitants of the area are making against the progressive spreading of these slums," the students said. "Due to the heavy pressure of the surrounding, very densely populated Negro districts (not density 20,000 to 30,000 people per square mile and two to three times as large as the white district), we do not believe that their efforts will have any lasting success.

"We were also astonished to find out during the course of our research that the slum area inhabited by Negroes had a far greater value per square mile than the white residential area adjoining it—a fact perhaps due to the intensive overcrowding.

"We should fight the causes, not the symptoms, of the social and economic conditions leading to slums. The real issue is the fact that two out of every five inhabitants in Atlanta dwell in slums and that we are doing little if anything to stop the spreading of these slums. The problems involved are more difficult, more far-reaching than the Fifth Warders can tackle by themselves. What Atlanta needs is an over-all development program fitting within the framework of an intelligent and efficient Master Plan as advocated by numerous civic leaders. Only such a plan could guide Atlanta's rapid growth and extensive industrialization, do away with blight, and make this a city in which all inhabitants could enjoy living in and point to with pride.

"Just as a chain is as strong as its weakest link, so is a city as beautiful or as ugly, as healthy or as filthy, as its less privileged districts. Slums are not only very bad morals, but also very poor economics. May the Fifth Warders as well as the rest of the Atlantans see the light some day not too far off and demand plans and actions necessary to stop the waste in lives, property values, city funds and human happiness we still tolerate within our midst."

National security—the pivotal base of all domestic and foreign legislative controversy—is the subject to be discussed by four U. S. military experts when WCON-ABC's Town Meeting takes to the air at 8:30 this p. m.

Debating the issue: "How Much Must We Spend for Real National Security?" will be Sen. Millard E. Tydings, Chairman of the Armed Services Committee and member, Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Hanson W. Baldwin, Military Editor for the New York Times and author of "The Price of Power"; Rep. Dewey Short, ranking Republican member, House Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, Chairman, Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee and member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

TEEN-AGE TALK

By SHELIA JOHN DALY

One of the troubles with being teen-aged is the fact that it is so hard to keep looking fresh and clean! Up in the morning for school, rushing off to catch a bus, four or five classes a day, a busy lunch hour, a session of working on the school paper or a dozen other things to do—it's enough to wear any woman out. With Summer jobs, the on-the-ball pace is just as swift. And teen-agers often have the extra trouble of shiny noses and hair that gets mussed up just a bit quicker than calm-and-cool adults. Occasionally one sees a high school girl who manages to look so well-groomed, so cover-girl perfect that she seems to have some secret formula of her own. Maybe she's just a natural beauty but more likely she is just naturally smart—smart enough to know that good grooming is a round-the-clock business. You must start the morning prepared to stay neat and fresh each hour of the day.

Whether you're going to school or a Summer job, carry in your handbag a small cosmetic bag (just try any dime store) with fresh-up supplies to use at least twice a day, besides your early morning and predate grooming session. Supplies should include a small comb, compact with powder and fresh puff, lipstick—and some cleansing tissue and a small bottle of light cologne. Between classes or at your lunch hour, freshen up your face by cleansing with the dampened tissue (most gals balk at a complete soap-and-water wash in the school washroom), add a pat of powder and fresh lipstick. Give yourself a complete and neat hair combing, not just a stray ends or a few pet curls, but a really thorough coiffing. Wash your hands thoroughly (grimy knuckles are as inexcusable in the middle of the day as they are in the early morning), straighten your stocking seams, tuck in your blouse—just all the little touches that add up to good grooming. Then, use a touch of cologne on your wrists and the tips of your ears to make you feel fragrant.

In a busy day, most gals need this pause for refreshening. For if you feel untidy, hot, and sticky, and just a little wilted at the edges, you probably look that way. It will take you from three to five minutes before or after lunch and before you leave school or work at the end of the day to give yourself this "fresh start." And in a 24-hour day, a pretty girl (and a smart one) will find the time!

Tough Guy

The friendship of two boys who are almost caught in the cross-currents of crime forms the thought-inspiring plot of "Tough Guy," a Big Town adventure drama to be heard on WSB-NBC tonight at 10.

Mystery

When David Harding, chief Counter-Spy, discovers one of his agents has been murdered, he follows the cleverly concealed trail to uncover a brilliant scientist and scholar who has done the trick. In mild-appearing Prof. Horn, a man beloved by his students, Harding reveals an arch criminal in tonight's adventure episode on WCON-ABC at 7:30.

The Norths

"It's murder!" exclaims Jerry North as wife Pam enlists his assistance in Spring housecleaning, not knowing, of course, how true the statement is. As things turn out, Jerry is 100 percent right when, on unrolling a rug from the cleaners, he discovers the usual item—a corpse. You'll hear Mr. and Mrs. North at 8:30 via WAGA-CBS.

School Outing

VIDALIA—The School Patrol boys of Toombs County will go to Indian Springs in the near future for a short outing to mark the end of the term and their labors for safety which have continued through the year.

Church Project

SPARTA—The Mayfield Methodist Church, in Hancock County, is nearing completion after being under construction for sometime. Although the membership is small, the old church was razed and the entire lot cleared for the new edifice. The Rev. George C. Wright, Pastor for the past seven years, hopes to soon have the dedication service.

Wizard of Odds - By Leo Guild

Your Mind's Mirror

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is an artist's "inspiration" like a dream?

Answer: Yes, writes Wolfgang Born in "Ciba Symposia." The original idea or "inspiration" for work of art is the product of the same unconscious mechanisms that create dreams—reviving and rearranging memories of past experiences and impressions into a new "vision" in which the artist finds satisfaction for his repressed desires. But while there are records of a poet's having dreamed entire poems, as a rule the inspiration must be worked out by deliberate and conscious effort, the success of which depends on technical skill.

Should parents choose a grown child's friends?

Answer: No. The mere fact that they want or try to do this suggests why the child has picked friends whom they disapprove of. For the more an adolescent feels his individuality has been smothered by his parents, the surer he will be as an adult to prefer associates who are as unlike them as he can find. There is every chance that he will come back to their standards after he has tried out different ones, but in the meantime, trying to dictate to him either will make him still more rebellious or will "break his spirit" for life.

Is "paranoia" curable?

Answer: Leading authorities say the chances are "extremely poor." A true paranoiac is a person who begins with extreme feelings of inferiority and self-doubt, but later "projects" these onto other people and comes to believe that everybody hates him and is trying to conspire against him. As a defense, he is likely to develop "delusions of grandeur" which he may hide under a cloak of mock humility. Paranoiacs frequently are "sane" enough to make a living and keep out of trouble, but are hard to cure because they cannot trust the doctor.

Opening lead: Three of Clubs.

One of the most remarkable results ever to be obtained from an apparently colorless hand, is recorded today. It occurred in the District of Columbia championships. Here, if ever, was an acre of Diamonds showing up in the back yard.

North opened the bidding with 1 Club and East made the normal overcall of 1 Diamond. I think not even the purists would take issue with East's action. With this type of trump holding, no disaster is to be contemplated at such a low level. An immediate problem was posed to South. There seemed little doubt that his side could score game at either Spades or No Trump depending upon the nature of partner's holding. But in this manner only 400 odd points could be earned. (There is a bonus of 300 points for making a nonvulnerable game). In light of East's vulnerable status South considered the likelihood of defeating the Diamond contract two tricks, which would yield a score of 500 points. He engaged in some simple arithmetic. He could count, with reason dependability, on taking five tricks himself. The Queen of Diamonds and a Club ruff, two Heart tricks and at least one Spade trick. An opening bidder can normally be counted upon to develop three tricks in defense, which added up to eight tricks, or a two-trick penalty. On the basis of this calculation he doubled and all hands passed.

The singleton Club was led and taken by the Ace. The nine of Clubs was returned. This was an unnecessarily high club and in ruffing situations this is a signal for partner to return the higher ranking suit. South trumped the King of Clubs and of Clubs was returned. This was an unnecessarily high club and in ruffing situations this is a signal for partner to return the higher ranking suit. South trumped the King of Clubs and led the 7 of Spades. North won with the Ace and did not make the mistake of giving his partner another Club ruff at this time, because he realized that declarer would obtain a discard. He, therefore, continued with the deuce of Spades and South cashed the Jack and the King. North discarding the 9 of Hearts. The Ace and another Heart put North in and now a Club was led. East ruffed with the Jack and South over-ruffed with the Queen. South then led a Spade and North trumped with the Ace and led another Club. In this way South could not be prevented from taking a trick with the 9 of Diamonds. The penalty was 1,100 points.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Opportunity Knocks For Sheep Raising

TUESDAY, MAY 24, 1949

Suggestion of the day: Spend the weekend in Georgia's interesting mountains. The folks are hospitable, the food is good, the accommodations pleasant, and the scenery is gorgeous.

DRAMATIC PROGRESS

GRIFFIN—Some of the facts brought to light concerning the raising of sheep by the Georgia Experiment Station are rather remarkable. This station has done more research work with sheep than any other agency in Georgia and, as a consequence, the sheep breeders keep in touch with it and hold their annual meeting there.

Confronted with the many problems incident to sheep raising—including attacks by internal and external parasites and dogs, and the need for increased wool production, the need to increase the size of the breeding ewes, the necessity of producing lambs around Christmas time in order to get them on the Spring market and before the hot weather sets in, and to get bigger lambs at birth and of such constitution as will grow off rapidly, and to produce as much feed as possible on pasture—the Station has made dramatic and constant progress in meeting and overcoming all of these problems.

Observe the following: The weight of the ewe has been increased from an average of 58 pounds to an average of over 100 pounds. The wool crop per animal has increased from 3½ pounds to nine pounds. The weight of the lamb at three months has been increased from 30 pounds to about 60 pounds, and the weight of the lamb at six months has been increased from 60 pounds to approximately 100 pounds.

Native ewes were crossed with Hampshire rams, the offspring bred to Dorset rams and this offspring bred to Columbian rams. The first two crosses were particularly effective. Lambs are now dropped in November and December and weigh 100 pounds by Easter.

External parasites are controlled by dipping three times with DDT at 10-day intervals after shearing in the Spring. Internal parasites are controlled by keeping one part phenothiazine and nine parts of salt before the sheep at all times. Tapeworms are removed by occasional drenchings of nicotine and copper sulphate.

Sheep return more per dollar invested (says the Station) than any other type of livestock.

There are now only 14,000 sheep in Georgia. A great opportunity is knocking at our doors.

It was nice meeting with you this morning at 6. Join us again at 12:45 p. m., 55 on the dial.

It's a date.

Channing Cope

YOUR STARS

Sun in Gemini

General Tendencies—Go easy with money and personal belongings tonight—don't misplace anything cherished or valuable, and better make this caution all day long, while you are about it. The day shows expense, needless waste or loss and so on and can bring theft under extreme conditions. This trend will last for more than two days, so don't leave the keys in the car needlessly. You will not be likely to regain what you lose at this time, particularly if born in May or late August. Romances seem disappointing—dates may be called off here.

If It's Your Birthday — The coming year will bring two very opposite interests in your life. One can be progressive in spite of outside drawbacks. The other is apt to cost you money, cause family conflict and altogether make your life stormy for the entire period. Both these interesting chains of events will come about through women, so watch your step. Don't listen to gossip or join in any exaggerated stories about your friends; these can snap back at you most unpleasantly.

Capt. Harry E. Collins, who played a major role in getting the Bell Bomber Plant at Marietta into production during the war as Assistant Manager of Bell Aircraft's Georgia Division, died Sunday night at University Hospital in San Francisco after a long illness.
